BULLETINS

London, Jan. 12 (P)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told a lengthy cabinet meeting today of latest Palestine developments which the Foreign Office calls a grave threat to peace in the Middle East. The meeting lasted more than three hours. There was no immediate announcement of action.

Nanking, Jan. 12 (P)—Radio reports from Tientsin tonight said the Tientsin National garrison had rejected a three point proposal for the surrender of that north China city to the Communists.

The reports said the National force of 60,000 troops had agreed to give up the city of 3,000,000 if they were permitted to be evacuated "with light arms" through the port of Tangqu, 27 miles from Tientsin.

Chateau D'Oex, Switzerland, Jan. 12 (P)—Twelve children—six boys and six girls—and two nurses died today in a fire at the Les Oisillons Children's camp where they had been spending a holiday. Two other boys and two girls were badly burned. One of the nurses was reported to be a Briton. The other victims were Swiss.

Choice Of Theaters Offered Recruits

The Army and Air Force Recruiting office in the post office building here called attention today to the fact that men from 17 to 34 years may now choose the European theater or the Far East for assignment after enlistment.

One-year enlistments still are open to 18-year-olds with the deadline for two-year enlistments for men with prior service to expire January 15.

Immediately after the installation, refreshments will be served. All officers and members are urged to be present.

Littlestown ROTARY CLUB ADDS FOUR TO MEMBERSHIP

Four new members were received into the membership of the Littlestown Rotary club at the weekly meeting of the club held Tuesday evening in Schottie's banquet hall. They were L. Robert Snyder, A. G. Ealy, William Gingrow and Frank Basehoar. W. H. Marshman, who joined the club last August was also formally received.

E. W. Dunbar, governor of the 181st district, gave an explanatory talk to the new members on the structural origin of Rotary, beginning with the individual and going through the local club to the Rotary International. He also pointed out to the new members that there are 320,000 members in the Rotary International.

Roy D. Knouse discussed the principles and ethics of Rotary. He pointed out that attendance is not compulsory, yet many of the members have a near perfect attendance. He credited this to the fine fellowship of the clubs.

Luther W. Ritter, secretary, presented each of the new members with his credentials, which included a "History of the Local Club," a booklet entitled, "Introduction to Rotary," their membership cards, pins and a wall plaque containing the principles of Rotary.

Guests From Maryland
Luther D. Snyder, president, presided over the meeting. President Bankert of the Hampstead, Md., club was a visitor. Bernard Schott donated the guest package which was received by A. W. Schott. The Classification and Membership committee, of which Dr. H. A. Stonesifer is the chairman, was in charge of the program.

Next week the Community Service committee, of which Cloy Crouse is the chairman, will be in charge of the program, at which time the school patrols will be guests of the club.

Approximately 400 were in attendance again for the third preaching mission service conducted by the Littlestown ministerium in St. (Please Turn To Page 8)

MOOSE WOMEN TO MEET HERE

The mid-winter conference of the Women of the Moose for chapters in Lancaster, Columbia, York, Hanover, Carlisle and Harrisburg will be held at the local Moose home on January 23, it was announced at a meeting of the local chapter Tuesday night. Orlena Hinderer, of York, will act as leader. Catherine Shealer, senior Regent, presided.

Mrs. Charles Lauer has been ordered by Stella Englert, Pittsburgh, associate Regent, to act as leader at the Harrisburg mid-winter conference on the same date.

A practice session for the conference will be held at the Moose home January 14 at 7:30 p. m. All members, officers and escorts are to be present. Corsages for the officers and escorts may be ordered from Laura Swope, York street.

There will be a bingo party at the Moose home Monday night.

HIT-RUN CHARGE

Dorney R. Walterick, York, arrested by Constable Charles Smith on a hit and run charge filed by Clair E. Hartman, Cashtown, was held for court Tuesday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder. He furnished $300 bail. Hartman alleged that the York man ran into his car Christmas morning and did not identify himself.

TEETER GIVEN HIGH HONOR BY AREA SCOUTERS

District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter, was presented with a scouter statuette award for his work in scouting in the Black Walnut district Tuesday evening at the annual meeting of the York-Adams Council of the Boy Scouts held at York.

Teeter was selected for the award on the basis of his services as Black Walnut District finance chairman as well as for his work in other activities outside scouting.

Charles L. Weaver, scoutmaster of Troop 82, at Irishtown and of Troop 106, at Abbottstown, was presented with the Silver Beaver award, the highest award that the local council can bestow on scouters for service to boyhood. Weaver, in addition to serving as scoutmaster for two county troops has also led two retreats for Catholic Boy Scouts, served as layman chairman of the diocesan Catholic committee on scouting, served on the scout camp staff and the training faculty for the district. A member of the Conewago Chapel Catholic church, he has been active in scouting for more than 20 years and first became a scout in 1931 as an assistant scoutmaster in a Hanover troop.

Countians Named

O. H. Benson and Attorney Teeter were named as members-at-large for the area council from Adams county and Charles I. Raffensperger, assistant Adams county superintendent of schools, as Black Walnut District chairman was named to the council committee. Ralph A. Masten, York Haven, was elected president of the York-Adams council.

Ray F. Zaner, Benjamin T. Root and Col. Mahlon N. Haines were named as national council representatives.

Reports presented by Scout Executive W. Jack Watson showed that 44 per cent of the members of the Conewago district troops are of tenderfoot classification while 23 per cent are first class or above. In the Black Walnut district 78 per cent are tenderfoot and 11 per cent hold first class or above ranks. Round Top, which includes some county troops, has 48 per cent tenderfoot and 26 per cent are first class or above in rank.

Of the 12 scout units organized or re-organized in the area five were in the Conewago and Black Walnut districts. They included troops at Arendtsville, Dillsburg, Bendersville, Idaville-Gardners and Hanover.

Seeks Cooperation Of Town People To Curb Fire Hazard

Eugene S. Sickles, borough fire marshal, today appealed to residents of Gettysburg for cooperation in reducing what he called a serious fire hazard caused by the accumulation of waste paper at a local residence.

Residents were asked to stop giving paper, cardboard and other inflammable materials to the collector to carry to his home.

"The situation is getting beyond control," Sickles said, "and threatens the lives and property of all persons living in the same block."

"This man, who has been getting paper, carton board and burlap, most of it given to him by well-meaning merchants and residents, carries this inflammable material home day and night and piles it up in his yard, with no purpose except of accumulation, refusing to sell or dispose of it for any reason," Sickles added.

"After several years of this, the yard at his home, the barn in the rear and even his living room and kitchen are piled high and the piles are getting higher every day. The neighbors on either side are in constant fear for their safety and have appealed to the authorities time and again, with no success.

Asks Cooperation

"I, as fire marshal, reported this situation to the borough council, the burgess and other authorities, and the peculiar circumstances surrounding the case prevent me from carrying out the due processes of the law to remove this hazard."

"Therefore, I am appealing to residents of Gettysburg to stop giving this collector paper, cardboard, or other scrap to carry home. In this way they can help by keeping the piles of combustibles from increasing at this man's home until proper steps can be found to have them removed."

MALE BIRTHS LEAD IN AREA, REPORT SHOWS

There were 724 births and 205 deaths in Gettysburg and four surrounding townships during 1948, the provisional annual report of Ralph C. Geiselman, local registrar of vital statistics, disclosed today. The 724 births were five less than the all-time high of 729 set in 1947. The 205 deaths were 81 less than the 286 record set in 1918.

Seven hundred and eight births occurred in Gettysburg, as did 161 deaths. There were five births and 27 deaths in Cumberland township, six births and ten deaths in Straban; two deaths in Freedom and five births and five deaths in Highland township.

Since the beginning of state registration on January 1, 1906, there have been 11,665 births and 6,399 deaths in the area, Geiselman's report showed.

More Boys Than Girls

There were more boys than girls, 371 to 353, born in the area during the year, and there were more male deaths, 114 to 91, than female deaths during the period.

March and April saw the most deaths, 25 during March and 21 during April, while the most births occurred in September and August, 72 and 70 respectively. The 72 in September tied the previous all time high for a month. The births by month were, January, 60; February, 45; March, 66; April, 55; May, 49; June, 57; July, 63; August, 70; September, 72; October, 69; November, 65 and December, 53. Death totals by months included, January, 13; February, 18; March, 25; April, 21; May, 17; June, 18; July, 19; August, 15; September, 15; October, 14; November, 16 and December 14.

During December there were 29 male and 23 female births in Gettysburg and six male and five female deaths. One male death occurred in Cumberland township during the month. Straban had one death. Freedom township showed neither births nor deaths and Highland township has one female birth and one female death.

BANK PRESENTS WATCHES TO 3 FOR "SERVICE"

The National bank of Arendtsville Tuesday evening celebrated its 41st birthday with a banquet for stockholders held in the new community center room in the basement of the bank.

Cashier Arnold E. Ormer described the affair as "the first of what we hope will be annual stockholders' dinners." He acted as master of ceremonies for a program during which three men, President S. G. Bucher, R. H. Shull and G. F. Smith were presented with 17 jewel gold watches for their 41 years of service as members of the board of directors. President Bucher has been renamed president of the bank each year since 1908, when he was elected its first president. Messrs. Shull and Smith have been renamed to the board every year since they became members of the original board.

Long Service

The watches were presented by the youngest member of the board, M. LeRoy Zeigler, in a brief ceremony at the close of the evening's activities. President Bucher will be 82 his next birthday. Mr. Shull will be 80 and Mr. Smith, 79. Zeigler noted in making the presentations, "We cannot honor them too highly."

FREEDOM TRAIN COMMITTEE HAS $26.53 BALANCE

A balance of $26.53 remains in the Gettysburg and Adams County Freedom Train Committee fund. Attorney Donald M. Swope and Henry W. Garvin, chairman and treasurer respectively, announced today.

Contributions to the fund to finance the two-day exposition of the Freedom Train here, November 19 and 20, and the Rededication program of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address that was broadcast from here on the morning of the 19th over 428 stations, totaled $4,336.93. Expenses totaled $4,310.40.

Recordings of the 30-minute program on November 19 are being presented to the speaker, Attorney General Tom C. Clark, The American Heritage Foundation, the Adams County Historical Society, American Historical Association, Pennsylvania Archives and other national historical groups.

The delay in making public the financial statement of the committee was due to the late receipt of some of the bills incurred.

Chairman Swope today expressed his appreciation and thanks to all those who assisted in the two-day program here.

Expresses Thanks

"I want to thank, on behalf of the committee, all those who contributed to this worthwhile venture, industries, fraternal, civic and other organizations and the many individuals. They made our program financially possible. I also want to thank all others who gave of their time and effort which in no way can be measured in terms of money. Without the generous cooperation of all of those our program would not have been a success."

"It is impossible to name all who assisted the committee. To them goes a great deal of the credit. I (Please Turn To Page 2)

DANCE PLANNED BY SORORITY

A regular semi-monthly meeting of the Epsilon Delta chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority was held in the Recreation room of the First National bank building Tuesday evening. In the absence of Mrs. Julius Swope, president of the chapter, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. George Gilbert, vice president, with 24 members in attendance.

Preceding the business session, an instruction meeting was held for 14 pledges, and this meeting was also in charge of Mrs. Gilbert who is the regular instructress for pledges of the sorority.

During the business session final plans were decided upon for the Valentine's Day dance to be held in the high school gymnasium February 14. Chairman of the various committees were named as follows: Tickets, Mrs. Glenn Harner; publicity, Mrs. W. H. Groft; program, Margaret Spangler, and decorating, Eloise McClellan.

A program was given by Dorothy Shetter, Mrs. Kay Culp and Mrs. Groft on "Designed for Living," and dealt with home decoration. Furniture of various periods dating from the middle ages through Italian renaissance, Spanish, Mohammedan, Christian, French, English, early American and modern were discussed as were the rugs, wall painting and papering and proper type pictures for each type of furniture. The next regular meeting to be held will be Tuesday, January 25, in the bank building.

DR. ABERLY IS GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. John Aberly was the speaker at the January meeting of the Women's Missionary society of Christ Lutheran church Monday afternoon at the church, speaking on "Missions of Indonesia." Mrs. E. A. Crouse, the newly-elected president, presided. Mrs. W. E. Tilberg conducted the devotion, using as the theme "A Look Into the Future." Mrs. Howard J. McCarney offered special music.

Dr. Aberly stressed the fact that Indonesia is one of the most fruitful and remarkable of mission fields, but that a European domination being overthrown there may mean an overthrow of religion.

"Our hope is in the wonderfully strong native leaders the missionaries have trained," he said. He closed his talk with a plea for prayers that the work which has been accomplished may endure.

A business session followed, during which committees for the coming year were appointed. An announcement was made by Mrs. Wallace E. Fisher, a member of the membership committee that Guest Day will be observed at the next meeting on February 7, at which time the executive committee will serve tea. Every member is asked to bring a guest.

Miss Foth told of her interest in such an organization and was chosen from the club to be the representative for such a project. Mrs. Blaine G. Walter, Biglerville, was also appointed to have a share in the project.

Gifts For Two
Mrs. Wilmer Bream, Biglerville R. 1, presented gifts to Mrs. Griest and Miss Hartman for having perfect attendance last year. Mrs. Hennig won the draw prize which was donated by Miss Evelyn Altoff, Littlestown.

Mrs. Buehler, treasurer of the North Atlantic Region, and a member of the executive board of the Region, will be the speaker for a "refresher course" on Soroptimism at the dinner meeting later in the month, with details to be announced later.

Victim's Family Would Aid Convict

Pottstown, Pa., Jan. 12 (P)—The mother and sister of Mrs. Miriam Green, slain Pottstown divorcee, have offered a $500 reward for information freeing Gerald C. Wentzel, convicted as her slayer, and leading to the capture of the real murderer. Mrs. Katie O'Meara, Mrs. Green's mother, and her daughter, Evelyn Eckenroth, both of Mohnton, Pa., said yesterday they made the reward offer because they are convinced of the innocence of Wentzel—now serving a 10-to-20-year sentence in Eastern State penitentiary at Philadelphia.

Both Mrs. O'Meara and Mrs. Eckenroth testified on behalf of Wentzel at his trial which ended in his conviction of second degree murder on April 11, 1947. He later appealed to the Pennsylvania Supreme court unsuccessfully.

Wentzel, who is 39, was arrested several weeks after the 28-year-old divorcee was found strangled in her Pottstown apartment Dec. 9, 1946.

The president, Mrs. Bernard Murray, presided. Mrs. Dunning Idle, Sr., gave a talk on the advanced program of the Methodist church as outlined at a recent meeting at Columbus, Ohio. Members were asked for donations of furniture to be used in the men's division of the county home. Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. Milton R. Remmel, Mrs. Lilla Craig, Mrs. Lottie Ridinger and Mrs. Emory Zepp.

DEATH

William H. Hare

William H. Hare, 65, died at 11:15 o'clock Monday night at his home, 134 South Broad street, Waynesboro. Mr. Hare had suffered a heart attack in April, 1948, but had recovered sufficiently to return to his work. Since Thanksgiving, he had been ill and unable to work, and for the last week was critically ill and confined to his bed.

He was born in Fairfield, the son of John M. and Catherine Biesecker Hare. He went from Fairfield to Waynesboro in 1907 where he had made his home. He was a carpenter by trade and followed that occupation all of his life.

First, he was employed at the Geiser company. For the last 25 years he was an employee of Frick company.

His wife, Mary B. Parr Hare, died in November, 1944. He was a member of the St. Andrew's Catholic church, the Holy Name society and Knights of Columbus.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Henry B. Pecher, at home; two grandchildren; the following brothers and sisters, John Hare and Mrs. Mary Smith, both of Harrisburg; Charles Hare, Littlestown; George Hare, Biglerville; Mrs. Catherine Rider, Waynesboro.

Funeral services Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, from the St. Andrew's church. Requiem high mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Father Carl B. Brady. Interment in St. Andrew's cemetery. Friends may call this evening at the home from 7 until 9. The Holy Name society will meet at the home at 8 o'clock, for the Rosary.

ASK SURVEY OF WATER SUPPLY

Harrisburg, Jan. 12 (P)—An intensive survey of Pennsylvania's underground water supplies will be proposed to the 1949 legislature.

The check-up will be made by the Bureau of Geologic Survey of the Department of Internal Affairs if the General Assembly appropriates the necessary funds, estimated at $140,000.

At the same time, the lawmakers will be asked to give the state supervision over underground waters in areas where the supply is threatened due to the heavy drain from deep wells in industrial sections. A companion bill would require the licensing of well drillers.

Both proposals have the backing of the state Water and Power Resources board which would supervise the withdrawal of underground waters in any critical area under the proposed law.

"The Department of Forests and Waters is supporting the allocation of funds to the Department of Internal Affairs for a ground water survey," explained M. F. Draemel, secretary of forests and waters. "We have to have information of what the supplies are before we can make any intelligent assignment of them."

The development of cooling and air conditioning systems, using water drawn from deep wells, has increased the drain on underground water supplies in recent years, a spokesman explained.

News Notes

New York, Jan. 12 (P)—The New York First Presbyterian church today came up with this answer to the problem of keeping young people out of neighborhood bars: A "television center."

A spokesman for the church, located on Fifth avenue in Greenwich Village, said it had bought a television receiver and set aside a room for a weekday schedule of video shows for younger groups.

Harrisburg, Jan. 12 (P)—A recommendation for inclusion of both clubs and hotels within the quota system for liquor licenses was made today by a state organization of church and dry groups.

The Federated Legislative committee, headed by Dr. Melvin Forney, of Philadelphia, of the Lord's Day Alliance, also asked for tightening up of several other phases of the liquor laws.

STREAMLINER DERAILED

Groveland, Fla., Jan. 12 (P)—The Orange Blossom Special, Miami-to-New York streamliner, derailed near here last night and a score of persons were injured. Nineteen were taken to Leesburg hospitals, two of them seriously hurt. The derailment was the second in two days for the Seaboard Airline Railroad's Pullman train.

SUNSHINE IN SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 12 (P)—Spring-like weather has shouldered winter aside in the south. Every way you look flowers are in bloom. From the Carolinas across the southeastern states to New Orleans, temperatures are up in the high 70's and low 80's. It's the sort of weather you expect about the middle of May.

Washington, Jan. 12 (P)—President Truman today received a citizens group backing his civil rights program and told them bills are being drafted to carry out his proposals.

P. O. INSPECTOR SHOT TO DEATH

Oklahoma City, Jan. 12 (P)—Postal Inspector E. M. Harkins was shot to death in the lobby of the main post office today and police arrested a 65-year old man.

The man was booked at police headquarters as Joseph Donnelly on charges of murder and investigation. A federal charge was being prepared.

Police quoted Donnelly as saying: "He accused me and slandered me and humiliated me. I had to take the law into my own hands."

Police said they found in Donnelly's possession a 10-inch knife and a pistol. A pistol bullet killed Harkins as he leaned over to take mail from his box. He was shot in the head.

Police said Donnelly told them he brought the knife along "just in case. Sometimes these guns don't work, you know. If it didn't I was at least going to cut off his arm."

In Donnelly's pockets were 10 letters addressed to the President, to newspapers, the FBI, the inspector of mails and a magazine.

Donnelly told police the letters explained his case against the U. S. Postal authorities. The FBI did not immediately release the letters for publication.

MAY RETURN TO EARLY PRIMARY

Harrisburg, Jan. 12 (P)—The 1949 legislature may have to re-establish the June primary in off-year elections to give peace-time draftees their constitutional right to vote.

State officials have been considering the problem ever since the new draft law became effective last year and legislation similar to that enacted during World War II is now under consideration.

That set the primary election in odd-numbered years in June instead of September, the traditional date, to give members of the wartime armed services an opportunity to get their ballots counted in local primary elections. The November election dates will be unchanged.

The absentee voting privilege, under legislation now being studied, would be given only to those outside the state at election times. Absentee ballots would be mailed upon request with provisions that the votes be kept secret until those cast at polling places are tabulated.

Exclusive Club In Berlin Okays GI's

Berlin, Jan. 12 (P)—The exclusive officers' and civilians' Harnack house said today it was okay for GI Joes to come again. The U. S. Army waved a big financial stick at the members' December ruling which barred ordinary soldiers from entering the club.

The ruling caused quite a hubbub. Maj. Gen. George Hays, deputy theater commander called the board on the carpet. He pointed out the army subsidizes the club and said there could be no discrimination where U. S. government funds were concerned—or else.

Five hundred members met last night and were told they would either have to put up an additional $175,000 of their own money in the next year or pull down the "restricted clientele" sign. They decided to pull down the restriction.

VFW PROTEST

Harrisburg, Jan. 12 (P)—The proposed curtailment of the veterans hospital building program in Pennsylvania brought a strenuous protest today from the state Veterans of Foreign Wars. Commander Hiram V. Hartman said he had sent a telegram to Maj. Gen. Carl R. Gray, Jr., veterans administrator, declaring "our membership is shocked" and asking how the VA proposes "to provide hospitalization in a state where private and state-operated hospitals are admittedly inadequate?"

Property Transfers

G. W. and Genevieve S. Lefever, Gettysburg, sold to C. A. and Mary A. Wills, Hamiltonban township, and 47-acre property in that township.

Luther W. and Rachel Clara Lawver, Menallen township, sold to John C. Cluck and others, same place, a 16-acre property in that township.

ESTATE BOND FILED

An administration bond in the estate of George E. Starry, late of Franklin township, has been filed with the county register and recorder by the administratrix, the widow, Anna V. Starry, Gettysburg R. 3.

BAR GROUP MEETS

The annual meeting of the Adams County Bar association for the election of officers is to be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the court house.

3 KILLED IN GERMANY

Frankfurt, Germany, Jan. 12 (P)—An American airlift plane returning from Berlin crashed near here today, killing all three crewmen. The big four-engine C-54 skymaster cut a swath 100 yards long through a forest two miles east of the Rhein-main airport, bowling over foot-thick trees like tenpins. The accident raised the death toll on the airlift to 26 Americans since the operation to supply Russian-blockaded Berlin began last June.

Upper Communities

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Rice, Jr., of Biglerville, are spending the week in Harrisburg attending the State Farm Show. While there they are guests of Mrs. Rice's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gangwer.

Mrs. John Lawver and daughter, Carol Ann, have returned to Harrisburg after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John W. Deardorff, of Biglerville. They were joined over the week-end by Mr. Lawver and son, Guy Lawver, who accompanied them home on Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Lawver will be hostess to the members of the Friendship class of Trinity-Bender's Evangelical and Reformed church school Thursday evening.

Twenty-eight members attended the January meeting of the King's Daughters class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school, Arendtsville, Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul Burgoon with Miss Miriam Thomas, Mers. Cameron Hoffman and Mrs. Arthur Deardorff as the associate hostesses. A program on "Hymns and Their Writers" was presented by Mrs. Howard Shockey.

Members of the Upper Adams County Lions club and their families will be interested in a program which Ted Malone will broadcast Thursday morning at 11:30 o'clock over the American Broadcasting system in connection with the Founders Week observance of Lions International. Mr. Malone's program will have as its theme "Lions and Their Activities."

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Culp, Red Lion, recently visited Mrs. Kulp's uncle, Curtis Peters, Carlisle road.

Included in the group of men from the county who are attending the National Canners' convention in Atlantic City this week are M. E. Knouse, John A. Hauser, Elmer Yoder, J. Willis Beidler, Clair Shillito and Donald Bosserman.

STEEL SCRAP DOWN

New York, Jan. 12 (P)—Falling prices this week have made steel scrap markets jittery all over the country, the Iron Age, metal-working trade weekly, said today. Whether further declines are in order or the present drop foretells less steel demand is not clear, the publication added. It said prices for No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap and other grades in major areas have been reduced by from $2 to $2.25 a ton.

BANK PRESENTS

to the very hour, the first sale of stock for the Arendtsville bank forty-one years ago, Cashier Orner said. "On January 11, 1908, exactly 41 years ago tonight, a meeting of the founders was held at which time solicitation of community residents to become stockholders of the new bank was started. At this meeting there were 122 shares subscribed for, or almost half of the then capital of the bank."

Original Organizers

Orner said the first meeting for organization of the bank was "called at C. H. Klepper's residence on the night of January 6, 1908. Those present at that meeting were: Rev. Dr. David T. Koser, P. E. Raffensperger, A. D. Sheely, Samuel Hershey, Hanson P. Mark, John F. Bushey, C. H. Klepper, W. W. Boyer, John A. Knouse, Dr. William E. Wolff, H. W. Trostel, P. S. Orner, A. F. Trostel, and I. S. Orner. The late Atty. John D. Keith was authorized then to act as counsel for the bank.

"Of all the original shareholders of 41 years ago, there are 13 remaining and in addition there are seven present stockholders who represent their husbands' interest in the original holdings of the bank. Of the 13 original stockholders still retaining their shares eight are with us this evening and of the seven beneficial or surviving original holders we have with us three," Orner said.

The growth of the bank over the past ten years was outlined by Orner. "For the year ending December 31, 1938 your bank had total deposits of $458,000 with earnings for the year of 419 and undivided profits and surplus in the amount of $31,672. For the year ending December 31, 1943, the deposits more than doubled the 1938 figure, and amounted to $1,019,000. During 1943, the bank earned $13,326, bringing the surplus and undivided profits to $51,517. For the year ending December 31, 1948 the deposits had increased by another 40 per cent to $1,433,000. During 1948 the earnings amounted to $26,000 and the surplus and undivided profits totalled $143,000.

Orner also pointed out that during the last five years the bank had on an average earnings of $22,000 per year, or 44 per cent earnings on the capital of the bank. Out of that, during the five years, almost 30 per cent, or $38,000, was paid to the federal government in the form of income taxes, a four mills tax was paid to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the bank made its assessments to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation for guaranteeing bank deposits.

Inspect Remodeled Bank

The cashier also described the enlarging and reconstruction of the bank during the past year. Those attending the dinner visited through the new bank structure which was described by Harry Lauer, assistant vice president of the Pennsylvania Company for Banking and Trusts of Philadelphia, the speaker of the evening, as "one of the most beautiful banks in this part of the country."

Orner said that the recreation center, which is offered for use free by any organization in the community, has been in constant use since it was completed. He noted that the center "fills a need in the community. Three meetings were held here last (Monday) evening. The Fair Association and Park Board held a joint meeting in this room (the recreation room), the Eveready Sunday school met in another portion of the bank and the Boy Scouts met in the bank lobby."

Directors of the bank, Mr. Bucher, Mr. Shull, Mr. Smith, W. A. Raffensperger, C. E. Taylor, G. A. Slaybaugh, and M. LeRoy Zeigler were introduced. One hundred twenty attended the affair including most of the 88 stockholders.

The interdependence of city and country and the work of the bankers in uniting the nation's activities was outlined by Mr. Lauer in his talk.

"One of the principal jobs of banking is that of handling expeditiously the financing of the country. Imagine what would happen if we were to go back to the old days of 'hard money' on the line. An Adams county fruit grower would have to go to New York, let us say, to sell his fruit. There he would sell his product for hard money and carry the coins home with him.

Cites Bank Services

"Or consider what would happen if you had to send hard money to some concern in California, from which you wished to make purchases. Without the convenience of the check, and far reaching interchange between banks, business would come to a comparative standstill.

"There is another function of the bank which brings the interdependence of people and banks even closer. The Arendtsville bank lends the money to Adams county farmers which permits them to obtain the machinery with which to produce the food which we people in the city must have if we are to live. The city bank lends the money to the manufacturers to enable them to produce the machinery and the like which the Adams countians need to produce the food. Thus the banks play their part in the very fabric of life, and it is because of the banks, and the service they offer that we are all able to do business easily and expeditiously."

Lauer described the multifold business of the banks. "At the same time a bank may be taking a deposit from a local person through which he is sending money to his parents in Europe, it may be lending money to a manufacturer to permit him to expand and provide more and better jobs for his community; another person may be placing values in a safe deposit box, another will be depositing money; another may be purchasing a bond; another may be seeking advice in financial matters."

He described the dual banking system—of national and state banks, and pointed out the work of the Federal Reserve system and the larger banks in tying together the country financially.

The turkey dinner served was prepared by the Eveready class of the Arendtsville Evangelical Reformed church.

Maroons' Second Half Rally alts Waynesboro Quint 42-29 fitting a new high in scoring and performance for the season, the Gettysburg high cagers trounced Waynesboro quintet here Tuesday night in a South Penn conference game 42-29 before a large crowd.

After trailing 20-15 at half time, Maroons took command late in the third period and won going away as the Tornado outfit was completely outplayed in the final 10.

The defeat marked the first loss Waynesboro after having racked seven straight victories. It was a fourth triumph in eight starts for the locals.

Gettysburg started with a rush on short shot by Donaldson and a pass by Sachs. Hess netted a goal for the visitors after two and a half minutes. Snowberger and Denhart matched goals and then Snowberger and Donaldson looped 4-pointers. Ward netted the end of two free tosses after which Westerahl landed a charity heave. Sachs' whirling toss cut the Maroons' margin to 9-8 at the quarter.

Tornado Zooms Ahead

The Tornado flashed its best form in the second period when Eyler added three goals. Hess a pair and one put the visitors in front 15 at half time. Gettysburg's shots came on a pair of tosses by Denhart and a single by Eisenhart. Donaldson opened the second half with a short shot. Hess landed a goal and Westerahl followed with a long shot. Again Hess converted on the foul line and Bushman tipped in a one-hander. Sachs' shot put the Maroons ahead 23-22 at two and one-half minutes but came right back with a short shot for Waynesboro's last lead of 2-1.

Westerahl and single conversions by Donaldson and Eisenhart led the Maroon lead to 27-24. Her netted a foul and Sachs sank a long shot to make the score 29-25 at the end of the period.

The Tornado zone defense felt completely apart early in the final 10 as Westerahl, Bushman and Denhart landed goals in rapid succession in the first two minutes. The Maroons steadily pulled away before Snowberger landed a goal, the first in 11 minutes for the visitors and but their second for the last half. Reserves from both benches finished the game.

Gettysburg netted 13 goals on 64 shots from the field for considerable improvement in their shooting percentage.

All of the Maroon regulars put up and games and the scoring was evenly distributed. However, it would be unfair not to mention Bill Bushman who played by far his best all-around game in retrieving the ball from the boards while looping five shots.

Jayvees Win Easily

Coach Howard Shoemaker's reserves toyed with the Waynesboro boys in the preliminary game to win in an easy 35-16 triumph through bit of fine shooting.

The Maroons will next meet Shippensburg on the latter's court Friday.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Price example of double thinking (like doubletalk, you know) was Harvey Harman's recent suggestion to stop giving films of disputed decisions to the newspapers. . . . the papers, of course, would have their own still pictures and recourse to the newsreels (unless the colleges wanted to shut off those, too.) . . . The only result would be to hamper efforts for accuracy. Writers still would criticize officials if they thought they saw a sour decision. . . . In line with that was Referee Sam Schoenfeld's contention that basketball officials are sensitive guys and shouldn't be criticized "unless it is constructive and helps the game." . . . Most of us figure it helps the game to point out that an official is doing a bad job, even if we can't improve his performance.

END OF THE LINE

Heine Groh, who hit 474 in the 1922 World Series, still is so proud of that feat that he has obtained license No. 474 for his car every year for 26 years. He's had it in three states—Florida now. . . . A star sophomore tumbler on the Penn State gym team is Rudy Valentino—no relation to the famous movie star. . . . Biglerville high school copied its first league victory Tuesday evening by upsetting East Berlin 33-24 on the East Berlin floor.

Coach Gene Haas' team, paced by Heller who tabbed 11 points, opened with an 11-4 advantage in the first period and after East Berlin rallied mildly in the third period, went on to win handily. Myers looped 10 tallies for the losers.

The Biglerville jayvees won the preliminary tilt 28-14.

Littlestown high also scored its initial league triumph by lacing York Springs on the latter's floor 32-31. There was no doubt as to the outcome after the first period when the Thunderbolts led 20-3. McCauslin, York Springs, was the high scorer of the evening with 20 tallies while Sentez and P. Garrick looped 17 and 16 points, respectively, for the victors.

The York Springs reserves took the preliminary 39-22.

WOULD EXTEND RENT CONTROL

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Legislation to extend rent ceilings 27 months and put thousands of dwellings back under rent control will be introduced by Senator Myers (D-Pa.), probably tomorrow.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the Senate Banking committee, told a reporter the measure might become the administration's rent bill. Mr. Truman has asked for tightening of controls and extension

The Senate Banking committee will hold its first meeting of the session Friday. Maybank predicted that rent legislation will get a top priority. The present law expires March 31. Myers' bill would extend control through June, 1951.

Under Myers' bill as shown to a reporter, rent control would revert pretty much to its status prior to changes authorized, over Mr. Truman's protest, by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress.

5 doctors prove this plan breaks the laxative habit

If you take laxatives regularly — here's how you can stop!

Because 5 New York doctors now have proved you may break the laxative habit. And establish your natural powers of regularity. Eighty-three per cent of the cases tested did it. So can you.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead! Every night for one week take 2 Carter's Pills. Second week — one each night. Third week — one every other night. Then — nothing!

Every day: drink eight glasses of water; eat a definite time; eat regularly.

Five New York doctors proved this plan can break the laxative habit.

Break the laxative habit — the laxative power! Because Carter's Pills "unblock" the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers.

Further — Carter's Pills contain no habit-forming drugs.

Break the laxative habit — with Carter's Pills — and be regular naturally.

When weary, overeating, overwork make you irregular temporarily — take Carter's Pills temporarily. And never get the laxative habit.

Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore for 33¢ today. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Frank R. Peckman Is Elected Head of Town Council: Gettysburg changed its administrative clothing of Friday evening with the faces of five new and one re-elected member around the town council table. Frank R. Peckman was unanimously elected, president succeeding Charles B. Dougherty. Following are the newly elected officers:

Mr. Peckman, president; C. B. Kitzmiller, secretary; William G. Weaver, treasurer; J. Donald Swope, Esq., solicitor; A. V. Welkert, chief of police; J. A. Tawney, street commissioner; J. Ralph Redding, fire marshal; C. H. Moose, janitor and marketmaster.

Dr. and Mrs. Dickson Go to West Coast: Dr. and Mrs. J. McCrea Dickson left Wednesday for Los Angeles, California, for a stay of from six weeks to two months. They will accompany Harrison Ball, of Mahanoy City, to the western coast city where Doctor Dickson will attend him in his convalescence from a severe stroke suffered several months ago.

Sells Property: Charles Rowan has sold his property on Buford avenue to Mrs. Carrie Pretz, West Middle street. Terms were private. The transfer was made through Miss Mary Ramer.

Sells Property: Announcement has been made of the sale of the home of Samuel Reed, Broadway, to Mrs. Cora E. Berkey. The transfer was made through the agency of C. A. Williams.

Phi Beta Kappa Initiates Ten New Members: Iota chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, of Gettysburg college, was increased by 10 new members, who were initiated into the organization Wednesday afternoon.

Rev. Dr. Oscar M. Vorhees, of New York city, secretary of the national Phi Beta Kappa, was in charge of the initiation, which took place in the Phreana Literary society rooms in Glatfelter Hall.

Among the 10 candidates for initiation were two women, Mrs. Elizabeth Painter Hanson and Mrs. Mary Naomi Myers Laufer, a graduate of college with the class of 1898. Others initiated were:

President Henry W. A. Hanson, D.D., Rev. John Wagner, D.D., '71; William K. T. Sahn, M.D., '72; Rev. Luther Kuhlman, D.D., '79; Luther A. Brewer, Esq., '83; John B. McAllister, M.D., '84; Luther C. Peter, M.W., '91; Robbin B. Wolf, Esq., '97; Edmund W. Meisenhelder, Jr., M.D., '98; Fred G. Masters, '94.

A dinner was served at 6 o'clock at the Hotel Gettysburg, attended by 32 Phi Beta Kappa members. Dr. Philip M. Bickle officiated in the capacity of toastmaster.

Dr. Hollinger Named President: The Adams County Medical society held its regular monthly meeting at the Warner hospital at which time officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

Dr. W. F. Hollinger, president; Dr. H. M. Hartman, first vice president; Dr. C. G. Crist, second vice president; Dr. J. P. Dalbey, secretary-treasurer, and Drs. H. E. Gettler, Henry Stewart and T. C. Miller, censors.

Sheriff Starts Out With a Bang: John C. Shealer's first official act as sheriff of Adams county was to destroy a moonshine liquor still Monday afternoon. Twelve bottles of beer were also destroyed.

The still was hacked to pieces with an axe in the jail yard in the presence of John P. Butt, Jr., new district attorney; his predecessor, Raymond F. Topper, Esq., Ex-sheriff John W. Hartman and Blaine E. Bixler, of Mt. Pleasant township, whom Sheriff Shealer has chosen as his chief deputy.

The county auditors elected Geo. W. Topper, president, and George M. Detrick, secretary.

A. J. Guise and John H. Stambaugh, incoming members on the board of directors of the poor met with Joseph I. Weaver, the hold-over member at the county home on Monday afternoon and selected em-

Today's Talk

KINSHIP TO NATURE

About my home is a lavish covering of snow. The sunshine is upon it, and the beautiful shadows of naked trees sweep their lines about it. I look out from my window and note a group of starlings and a score or more of tiny, delicate-bodied snow birds that have come to get a meal from crumbs and bits of suet.

I had to move from my writing and commune with these silent strangers, though I look upon them as friends—brave, cheerful little bodies. I watch them pick away on the snow and then wonder what goes on in their diminutive minds. Their rounded bodies look like little balls as they perch upon the branches of the shrubs, their cream-like breasts reflecting their kinship to the snow. I never see these birds without marveling over their courage in the cold.

Even the cold days of Winter have their revelations, but it is during the warmer Northern months that there is so much to touch the mind from careful observing. Nevertheless there are stimulating pictures that stay in the mind of all that one has seen in the out-of-doors. Often I lie awake and hear the glorious calls and songs of the mocking birds that I have so often listened to from my porch in Miami during so many happy Winters.

Often have I sat upon the veranda of my Summer cabin in Nova Scotia and watched the trembling of a leaf at early dusk. And the almost silence of the pines seemed to give to me a whispering Good Night. There is a striking personality to all trees, shrubs and flowers. Even the smallest wild flower appears to appeal to one to give it notice.

I never cease to marvel over the large variety of birds in their matchless plumage. Why are they so gorgeously garbed? In the bird world it is the male that decks himself out—or which God, his Creator, has outfitted. And why are the most astoundingly beautiful ones put into swamps and jungles? It is because man is not educated sufficiently to protect them in his so-called civilized areas?

This is such a beautiful world. Why do men war in it, quarrel, and destroy? How ignorant we are! There is no such brutality in Nature. There is kinship there.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "On Giving Credit"

THOSE OLD SNAPSHOTS

Now, when it comes to laughter and for shrieks of real delight, Just have the children round you on a cold and stormy night, With one of them suggesting, as the fire they sit about, Since for them the mother kept them: "Let us get the pictures out."

Down comes that box of snapshots, as they're called, of long ago, When mother was my sweetheart and I was mother's beau. And the laughter shakes the rafters (should such laughter be suppressed?) As they see their skinny father and the way that he was dressed.

"See that awful hat on mother, and her skirts that swept the floor!" They exclaim. "And here's another in the bathing dress she wore. Could she swim in such an outfit? (Twas a most expensive one.) And her lovely legs were covered. Did she keep her stockings on?"

"You are very rude," I tell them, "to make fun of us like that. I paid three hard-earned dollars for that nobby derby hat." But I chuckle as I say it, for the youngsters love to see Their doting dad and mother in the styles that used to be.

Mr. Stauffer and his family will move April 1 to Cashtown, were Mr. Stauffer has accepted a position in the store of Robert Bream. Other appointments made by the directors of the poor are as follows:

Charles Stahle, Esq., solicitor; Dr. E. A. Miller, physician; Bernard Stock, treasurer; C. Tilden Myers, secretary; John M. Meals, caretaker of the men's and women's building; William N. Conner, caretaker of old men's building; Benjamin Stoops, second teamster.

Adams County Freezes Tight Over Week-End: Gettysburg froze up over the week-end, arctic weather arriving Saturday afternoon on the wings of a howling west wind. Temperatures were rapidly shot downward until the mercury stood at various points between 2 degrees below zero and a few degrees above in various parts of the county during Sunday night.

Personal Mention: Miss Carrie Stallsmith has sold her property on North Stratton street to Charles Kappes. The transfer was made through the agency of C. A. Williams, Hanover street.

MINER TRAPPED BY ROCK FALL RESCUED; DIES

Cairnbrook, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)—A band of miners worked more than 15 hours in one-man relays to rescue a fellow worker trapped in a rock slide, but he died shortly afterward today in Windber hospital.

William Wallace, 27, was crushed under a 20-ton rock slide yesterday in the Cairnbrook mine of the Loyalhanna Coal company. He was unconscious when freed.

The rescue workers had been forced to labor one at a time because of the threat of further rock slides. As they worked, Wallace whispered to them:

"Please, please. Please, get some of this weight off me. Hurry up, fellows. I can hardly stand it."

Pinned Under Car

The trapped bituminous miner was knocked under a coal car by the rock fall several hundred feet underground so that only his head and shoulders protruded. The car was partially crushed and parts of it pressed down on Wallace's body.

Periodically during the rescue efforts, Dr. Ernest Epperjessy crawled on his stomach to the trapped man to give him hypodermic injection to ease his pain.

Wallace's brother-in-law, Michael Gromoko, narrowly escaped being trapped with him as he walked a short distance away to adjust his pit lamp before the roof dropped.

Residents of Cairnbrook set up an emergency kitchen at the mine entrance to serve hot coffee and sandwiches to the rescue workers.

Seek To Iron Out Pro Grid Troubles

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Settlement of neighborhood rivalries held the key today to professional football peace.

If they can patch up scattered backyard feuds, the National Football League and all-America conference may find their three-year-old cold cash war when they meet next week in Chicago.

The feuding hotspots are New York, Los Angeles and the Washington-Baltimore area. An effort will be made to iron out the New York problem in the next few days.

Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees of the AAC, announced yesterday that a meeting would be held with representatives of the other Gotham professional teams.

WEST HELD IN WINTER'S GRIP

(By The Associated Press)

Winter continued to play favorites today. It slapped the far west, the Pacific northwest, west Texas and the Panhandle with chilling snows, sleet and cold. And it caressed the south with balmy breezes that brought flowers into bloom.

Snow—the fourth straight day of it—was predicted for onetime sunny southern California. However, the forecast was that it wouldn't be so cold in the orange and lemon growing belt—a minimum of 26 in comparison with the frosty 19 of early Monday.

Most of the snow melted from Los Angeles' downtown area but there was eight inches of the white stuff in Orange county's Silverado Canyon.

Sheets of ice and sleet gripped much of west Texas and the Panhandle and large sections of eastern New Mexico also were coated. The ice—thick—felled telephone lines and closed all roads in the Amarillo area. Schools were shut down and bus schedules cancelled. Power and telephone lines by the hundred were downed in west Texas and two deaths attributed to the weather were reported there.

Prolonged cold brought a new problem to the Pacific northwest—a power shortage. The long freeze cut the flow of water in ice-clogged streams and rivers, reducing the water supply needed for power generators.

Hopes Son's Slayer Is Sent To Chair

Philadelphia, Jan. 12 (AP)—The father of 12-year-old Ellis Simons said he hoped his son's accused slayer is sent to the electric chair. "All I ask is justice," Stanley Simons, an ex-GI who spent 18 months in the Pacific, told a reporter last night, adding:

"The sooner Seymour Levin is brought to trial, the better it will be for the community. If the state will press for an early trial, justice will be done. If there is a long delay, the horror of the moment will be forgotten."

Simons said he hoped the scissors slaying of his blonde, fun-loving youngster "saves the lives of others, maybe by leading to the passage of new laws controlling people likely to commit murder."

"If that happens," he said, "I'll feel compensated in some small measure."

COMBINE FIGHTS TAX BOOST PLAN

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—A strong combination of Republicans and Democrats was taking shape today for a drive against the $4,000,000,000 tax boost requested by President Truman.

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.), a long-time economy advocate, predicted the President will get less than half of what he asked for—if he gets any increase at all.

"With reasonable economies no tax increase at all would be necessary," he told a reporter. As a step in that direction he proposed dropping 210,000 of the 2,100,000 federal workers from the government payroll.

Senator Robertson (D.-Va.) expressed a similar view. "I feel the more prudent course would be to balance the budget by economy in spending rather than through an increase in taxes," he said.

And Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) told a reporter "it is going to be very, very difficult to get as much of an increase as the President requested. We either have got to cut the amount of spending or raise taxes. We simply cannot afford in these lush times to have deficit financing."

Rep. Taber (R.-N. Y.), who was chairman of the House Appropriations committee in the Republican 80th Congress, said in a statement he was certain the President's spending estimates can be shaved "very substantially."

Tom Longboat, Great Indian Runner, Buried

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 12 (AP)—Tom Longboat, the lank Onondaga Indian, was buried yesterday not far from the reservation where he began his career as a fabulous distance runner. He was laid to rest to the tribal chant of Iroquois funeral rites.

The end came Sunday after a long illness to the 62-year-old Marathon star whose powerfully-muscled legs brought him fame and fortune.

He was called the "greatest distance runner of them all" in the hey-day of his career 40 years ago. He left behind many rich legends. He won the Boston Marathon in 1907, ran in the Olympics in 1908, 1907, ran in the Olympics in 1908, professional and drew turnaway crowds to such arenas as New York's Madison Square Garden.

Fire Forces Plane Back To LaGuardia

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—A small fire and smoke in the cockpit of a Pan-American World Airways DC-4 forced the plane to return to LaGuardia field early today after starting a flight to Puerto Rico.

The plane was about 100 miles at sea when the trouble was discovered. Airline officials said the fire was caused by a short-circuit in wiring. It was not serious, they said, and the plane was returned for "maintenance reasons only."

Twelve passengers on the plane left later on another DC-4.

STATE POULTRY MEN MEETING IN HARRISBURG

Experiences in breeding chickens for meat and eggs were related this afternoon at the Farm Show meeting of the Pennsylvania State Poultry Federation by Robert R. Parks, of Altoona. Roy H. Heckenluber, Arundtsville, is president of the federation.

Parks said that since every chicken should end in the pot there is really no such thing as a strictly egg breed or a strictly meat breed.

For the average poultry grower the combination of both eggs and meat is what makes money, Parks pointed out.

The producer of broilers is more interested in meat qualities, but unless the breeding stock producing his chicks are good layers the chicks are going to come pretty high in price. Every chick comes from an egg, he explained.

On the other hand, unless high-producing layers have pretty good meat type they will not bring much at the end of their laying career, he said. On top of this is the problem of what to do with their brothers. Since no one has figured a way of beating nature, we have on our hands at hatching time one cockerel for about every pullet produced. When these cockerels lack meat type they must be destroyed and their value added to the price of the pullets, Parks explained.

Fresh Air Important

Egg production by the laying flock depends upon a supply of fresh air as well as adequate amounts of proper feeds, J. B. Stere, agricultural engineer with C. A. McDade Company, Pittsburgh told the group. He said one of the problems in ventilating hen houses is to take out excess moisture and odors without creating drafts.

Lowering temperatures through ventilation, he pointed out, can interfere with egg production and impair the health of the birds, and cause an increase in feed consumption. He described the different types of ventilating systems, including use of electric fans.

He cautioned that the best devices will be of little help unless supplemented with good management. Controlled ventilation, he said, is possible for both large and small houses.

Eggs for Quality

Farm flock eggs must be sold on a quality basis to realize the most money for the producer, according to Noel Shaver, Crawfordville, Indiana, president of the International Baby Chick Association.

Hatcheries, which produce the chicks, should be more interested in seeing that their customers receive the highest price for their eggs, especially local sales, rather than in the corner huckster picking up eggs regardless of quality at a current receipt price, Shaver declared.

Merchandising eggs from farm flocks is a necessity in a community which does not have a quality marketing program, the speaker said. Education along the line of quality eggs must be developed by some local person to be effective, he emphasized.

Hopes Son's Slayer Is Sent To Chair

Philadelphia, Jan. 12 (AP) — The father of 12-year-old Ellis Simons said he hoped his son's accused slayer is sent to the electric chair. "All I ask is justice," Stanley Simons, an ex-GI who spent 18 months in the Pacific, told a reporter last night, adding: "The sooner Seymour Levin is brought to trial, the better it will be for the community. If the state will press for an early trial, justice will be done. If there is a long delay, the horror of the moment will be forgotten."

Simons said he hoped the scissor slaying of his blonde, fun-loving youngster "saves the lives of others, maybe by leading to the passage of new laws controlling people likely to commit murder."

"If that happens," he said, "I'll feel compensated in some small measure."

COMBINE FIGHTS TAX BOOST PLAN

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—A strong combination of Republicans and Democrats was taking shape today for a drive against the $4,000,000,000 tax boost requested by President Truman.

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.), a long-time economy advocate, predicted the President will get less than half of what he asked for—if he gets any increase at all.

"With reasonable economies no tax increase at all would be necessary," he told a reporter. As a step in that direction he proposed dropping 210,000 of the 2,100,000 federal workers from the government payroll.

Senator Robertson (D.-Va.) expressed a similar view. "I feel the more prudent course would be to balance the budget by economy in spending rather than through an increase in taxes," he said.

And Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) told a reporter "it is going to be very, very difficult to get as much of an increase as the President requested. We either have got to cut the amount of spending or raise taxes. We simply cannot afford in these lush times to have deficit financing."

Rep. Taber (R.-N. Y.), who was chairman of the House Appropriations committee in the Republican 80th Congress, said in a statement he was certain the President's spending estimates can be shaved "very substantially."

Tom Longboat, Great Indian Runner, Buried

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 12 (AP)—Tom Longboat, the lank Onondaga Indian, was buried yesterday not far from the reservation where he began his career as a fabulous distance runner. He was laid to rest to the tribal chant of Iroquois funeral rites.

The end came Sunday after a long illness to the 62-year-old Marathon star whose powerfully-muscled legs brought him fame and fortune.

He was called the "greatest distance runner of them all" in the hey-day of his career 40 years ago. He left behind many rich legends. He won the Boston Marathon in 1907, ran in the Olympics in 1908, 1907, ran in the Olympics in 1908, professional and drew turnaway crowds to such arenas as New York's Madison Square Garden.

Fire Forces Plane Back To LaGuardia

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—A small fire and smoke in the cockpit of a Pan-American World Airways DC-4 forced the plane to return to LaGuardia field early today after starting a flight to Puerto Rico.

The plane was about 100 miles at sea when the trouble was discovered. Airline officials said the fire was caused by a short-circuit in wiring. It was not serious, they said, and the plane was returned for "maintenance reasons only."

Twelve passengers on the plane left later on another DC-4.

STATE POULTRY MEN MEETING IN HARRISBURG

Experiences in breeding chickens for meat and eggs were related this afternoon at the Farm Show meeting of the Pennsylvania State Poultry Federation by Robert R. Parks, of Altoona. Roy H. Heckenluber, Ardenstville, is president of the federation.

Parks said that since every chicken should end in the pot there is really no such thing as a strictly egg breed or a strictly meat breed.

For the average poultry grower the combination of both eggs and meat is what makes money, Parks pointed out.

The producer of broilers is more interested in meat qualities, but unless the breeding stock producing his chicks are good layers the chicks are going to come pretty high in price. Every chick comes from an egg, he explained.

On the other hand, unless high-producing layers have pretty good meat type they will not bring much at the end of their laying career, he said. On top of this is the problem of what to do with their brothers. Since no one has figured a way of beating nature, we have on our hands at hatching time one cockerel for about every pullet produced. When these cockerels lack meat type they must be destroyed and their value added to the price of the pullets, Parks explained.

Fresh Air Important

Egg production by the laying flock depends upon a supply of fresh air as well as adequate amounts of proper feeds, J. B. Stere, agricultural engineer with C. A. McDade Company, Pittsburgh told the group. He said one of the problems in ventilating hen houses is to take out excess moisture and odors without creating drafts.

Pa. Swine Growers Are Given Advice

Standardization on a middle-of-the-road meat-type hog and an educational program to acquaint producers and handlers with grades and differences in quality were advocated by R. L. Pemberton, Peoria, Ill., Tuesday night in addressing the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders' association at the Farm Show.

Secretary of the Hampshire Swine Registry, Pemberton declared changes in type have been too extreme. The result, he said, has been that breeders have been developing bacon-type animals, or the lard-type, only to be caught as victims of swings to other extremes.

He urged improvement in live-buying with a premium on quality instead of mine-run buying on a basis of weight only, with the support of the entire industry. "Any improved hog-buying system," he said, "can only be brought about through the leadership and cooperation of our educational leaders, the packers, and producers."

FARM SHOW SIDELIGHTS

Harrisburg, Jan. 12 (AP)—A new service feature for farmers visiting the 1949 State Farm show is a listing of the current day's livestock and market quotations.

The state Agriculture department is maintaining the booth in a concourse of the main arena. Each day market reports from Lancaster, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia are placed on display.

"In this service," a department official explained, "farmers away from home can keep in close touch with the markets and buy or sell livestock in accordance with his judgement of market conditions."

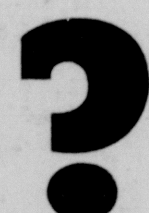

Preventing rather than curing disease is the greatest service of the veterinarian to the poultryman, Dr. E. L. Stubbs, of the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine told the Pennsylvania State Poultry Federation today.

"The greatest compliment a poultryman can pay the veterinarian is to seek his advice before he is in trouble and together they try to prevent disease," he said.

The Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers association was told today by a former Biglerville resident that canners and producers of the raw products enjoy a close relationship unusual in industry.

Jesse M. Huffington, crop consultant of the Continental Can Co., Baltimore, formerly of C. H. Muselman company, praised the function of the fieldman as the natural connecting link between the canner, the growers and the extension services and experiment stations of the agricultural colleges.

He urged growers to get acquainted with the local county agent and use the help available.

Dairy cattle men at the Farm Show are watching with great interest the effort of Yarba Della Thyrse, 2nd, a purebred Holstein cow to smash Farm Show records by winning the honor of being named grand champion female of her breed for the fourth year. At the 1948 Farm Show "Della" was the only cow in history to win this coveted award three years. She is 11 years old and recently gave birth to her second set of twin calves and for this reason it is possible that she may not win for the fourth time to break her own record. She is exhibited by Earl L. Groff, Strasburg, Lancaster county.

When the 95,000 attendance on Monday broke all first day Farm Show records officials checked up and found that the all-time record crowd for any one day was 150,000 on Wednesday at the 1947 Farm Show. Last year the daily attendance figures were Monday, 85,000; Tuesday, 110,000; Wednesday, 140,000; Thursday, 130,000; Friday, 60,000, a total of 525,000 compared with 545,000 in 1947.

Flying Farmers of Pennsylvania will have their day in a Farm Show atmosphere when they gather at the Harrisburg State Airport on Thursday for a morning meeting and afternoon demonstration on the spraying and dusting of crops. They will be guests of the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission, of which William L. Anderson, himself a flying farmer of Hummelstown, Dauphin county, is executive director and a member of the Pennsylvania Flying Farmers association organized at the 1947 Farm Show.

A record number of 38 teams of Pennsylvania farm draft horses has been entered in the annual State Championship horse pulling contest in the Large Arena at the Farm Show Wednesday night. Horsesh pitchers to the total of 24 have entered for the championships Thursday night when a record 12 teams log sawyers will compete for the State honor in that event.

Owls range in size from tiny owls about the size of a sparrow to horn and eagle owls which are 4 feet or more in length.

39-POUND TOM TAKES TURKEY HONORS AT SHOW

By LEONARD A. UNGER
Harrisburg, Jan. 12 (AP)—The 1949 State Farm Show grand champion turkey is the closest thing to a barnyard peacock seen here in years. It's a two-year-old, 39-pound bronze tom owned by Basil Gantt, Newport, Perry county.

The huge gobbler's colorful fan-shaped tail and his dangling comb are like twin magnets. Strutting in a champion's gilded cage, the bird is attracting thousands of visitors at the keystone state agrarian classic.

H. H. Kauffman, Penn State poultry expert, judged the gobbler principally for what he termed "market qualities"—what the consumer would want to buy. The champion bird has thick thighs, a boon for lovers of dark meat, and a rounded underside for those who prefer white meat from the breast.

Picked From 60
Picked from more than 60 turkeys entered at the farm show, the gobbler also has what Kauffman describes as "good strength to live in a flock with other turkeys."

"If a bird is a weakling, the others trample all over him," said Kauffman.

Besides marketing qualities and its strength, Kauffman said, a champion turkey must be judged on its being the best of the breed.

"The bronze turkey is very colorful," he noted. "Look at that bird—it has every color of the rainbow in its plumage. That's a real barnyard peacock."

The giant entry was rated by Kauffman as one of the finest turkeys he has even seen at the farm show. And that means something. Pennsylvania's $12,000,000-a-year turkey industry is the largest of any state east of the Mississippi.

Meanwhile, more and more farmers and their families thronged the 14-acre farm show building, largest of its kind in the world. The first two days of the exposition—it ends Friday—brought an influx of 225,000 visitors. Continued fair weather would likely see the 1947 record of 345,000 eclipsed this year.

A delegation of Alabama state officials, farmers and businessmen was due to arrive for an inspection of the keystone state exposition.

Six From 100
The Alabamians are planning a similar show for their state and want to study the Pennsylvania buildings, layout, judging procedure, classes and entries for a pattern.

Six Pennsylvania farmers joined the elite master farmer circle at the farm show yesterday.

Gold medals for achievements in agriculture and citizenship were awarded to Raymond B. Arnold, Athens, Bradford county; Clark H. Claypool, Worthington R. D. 2, Armstrong county; Bayard L. Hidenack, Easton R. D. 4; Ben W. Jacobs, Waynesburg; William M. Lott, Gardners R. D. 1, Adams county, and Hugh C. McPherson, Bridgeton R. D. 1, York county.

Picked by the Pennsylvania Farmer magazine, the sextet of master farmers represent the finalists of 100 nominations to top farmers in the state.

Last night, more than 800 rural

More Seed Spuds Will Be Available

Pennsylvania potato growers will have a larger supply of seed potatoes available this year than in any previous year, K. W. Lauer, in charge of seed certification, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, said at the Farm Show meeting of the Pennsylvania Co-operative Potato Growers association this morning.

Pennsylvania certified seed potatoes produced the largest crop of seed ever grown in the state in 1948. Because of some oversized tubers which must go for table stock, the net supply will be about the same as in 1947. The quality is better than that of the previous year's crop.

More potatoes come from Maine into Pennsylvania than from any other single source. The supply from Maine is slightly over a million bushels more than a year ago. Lauer urged early ordering because of the new Marketing Agreement which will place on the table stock market a large volume of potatoes that formerly went into seed channels.

The supply from Canada also is up, an increase of 1,100,000 bushels more than a year ago, although Prince Edward Island's supply is lower by about 750,000 bushels. Most of the seed brought into Pennsylvania from Canada originates in Prince Edward Island.

BEEKEEPERS ELECT

William G. Singer, Norristown, R. 3 was elected as president of the Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association at the annual meeting held at the state Farm Show. Merle P. Fisher, Granville, Mifflin county, was named vice president and the Rev. H. M. Snavely, of Woodbury, Bedford county, secretary-treasurer.

boys and girls enacted a giant tableaux on early Pennsylvania history as part of the annual rural talent festival in the 7,600-seat main arena.

The first school for children of pre-school age was founded by Jean Frederic Oberlin in 1774 in Waldbach.

Loamy Soil Best—To give young vegetable seedlings a good start, sow seed in hotbeds and coldframes with well-drained soil. Plants do not thrive well in early spring in ground naturally wet. Roots of plants started under glass need little water.

Solve Chick Problems—Cold-weather chicks avoid disease dangers common later on, distribute labor in brooding, and make better use of equipment. As grown pullets they come into production when egg prices usually are most favorable for producers.

Chill Meat Promptly—Meat well bled and chilled promptly in home butchering has the best chance for curing properly, says C. A. Burge, extension livestock specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

Keep Eggs Cool—Cool rooms (40 to 50 degrees) with 75 per cent relative humidity make the best egg storages.

Prune Fruit Trees—A good thinning, and cutting back where necessary, is urged by extension fruit specialists as the orchard pruning season gets under way.

Fall Wheat 5 Pc. Under '48 Acreage

First indication of intentions of Pennsylvania farmers on the growing of crops in 1949 came recently when the state Department of Agriculture announced fall planting of winter wheat at 936,000 acres, five per cent under plantings for the 1948 crop.

Rye seedings hit an all-time low of only 16,000 acres, 22 per cent less than the seedings of the year previous, according to federal-state surveys.

The Pennsylvania wheat plantings for harvest next summer, at five per cent below last year, contrast sharply with a five per cent increase for the nation. United States seedings total 61,370,000 acres.

Observers expressed belief that dry weather at seeding time and severe losses last summer from rust and Hessian fly in some of the best wheat growing counties of the state influenced the drop in Pennsylvania.

There are many records of parrots which lived to be 80 years old and a few, less definitely proved, of birds reaching 100.

Order Ornamentals—A. O. Rasmussen, extension ornamental horticulturist at the Pennsylvania State college, reminds that while nursery stocks have enlarged, demands have grown too, and that early ordering will help assure delivery of stock of desired size and species for Spring planting.

Use Phenothiazine Regularly—Phenothiazine for control of internal parasites in sheep must be used without interruption—as drench twice a year and free choice in salt (1 to 9)—to be effective.

Poultry Pastures—Good legume and bluegrass sods provide poultry on range with vitamins, proteins, and minerals, say grain and protect chicks from disease, say extension poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State college.

ANALYZES TAX OUTLOOK FOR AVERAGE MAN

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Will my tax be raised this year and, if so, why?

This question probably hits closer home with most people than anything else in President Truman's budget message.

Mr. Truman is talking about two kinds of taxes:

1. He wants a straight-out tax increase of $4 billion. This he wants mostly from the profits of corporations and—maybe—from the income of individuals in the upper and middle income brackets.

2. He wants the Social Security tax raised and he wants Congress to create a health insurance plan, which would call for a brand new tax.

Taxes For Income

The Social Security tax now is paid by employers and employees; and the health insurance tax would come out of your pay check, too.

How much would all this come to as a tax increase on business and the public? About $6 billion altogether the first year—$4 billion under number one above and about $2 billion under number two.

Take the $4 billion tax raise first—To stay out of the red, the government must collect in taxes as much money as it pays out in expenses.

But in the fiscal year beginning July 1—so Mr. Truman says—the government should spend $42 billion, or $1 billion more than it expects to collect in taxes.

Several Reasons

Avoiding that debt is one of his reasons for wanting the $4 billion tax increase. But he has another reason: The government debt—built up tremendously when the government had to borrow money to run the war—is running around $252 billion.

That's why Mr. Truman is asking for that $4 billion: to keep the country from going further into debt and to help pay off some of the present debt. But what about the Social Security and health insurance tax?

The government can't use that money for paying its expenses or paying off debt. That money goes into a trust, or set-aside, fund.

Would Cut Pay Check

Right now employers and employees are each paying one percent of the payroll money: one percent by the employer on his payroll, and one percent by the employee on his pay. Mr. Truman wants this raised this year to 1½ per cent each.

At the same time he wants 25 million people not now covered by Social Security brought within its protection.

As for a tax for a health insurance program, top officials say this would bring in about $300,000,000 in new taxes the first year and would add another one-half or one per cent tax on payrolls.

Give Figures On U.S. Population

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—The U. S. population rose by almost 2,500,000 in 1948.

This was a net gain in human resources and consumers, or future voters and taxpayers, depending on how you look at it. Births were near the all-time record. The death rate was the lowest in the country's history.

By the year's end, the United States had about 148,000,000 people. The population will probably top 150 millions this year.

The figures are given in the statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life insurance company. Births totaled more than 3,650,000, just under the all-time high of 3,910,000 in 1947, it said. The death rate is estimated at just over 9.9 per 1,000 population.

Wayne, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)—A 38-year-old volunteer fireman died last night, several hours after he had helped battle a drug store blaze in the Wayne business district. The fireman, Earl R. Frankfield, a member of the Radnor Fire company, was helping to clear away debris from the fire scene when he was first taken ill.

Holds Inter-racial Marriages Are Okay

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)

—There is nothing unethical or immoral in the marriage of "two people of different race who love each other deeply," says the president of the United Council of Church Women.

Mrs. Harper Sibley of Rochester, N. Y., told delegates to the Home Missions Council of North America, representing 23 major protestant denominations, last night that sociological obstacles to inter-racial marriage should be removed.

The church leader pointed out she spoke only as an individual and said there were many difficulties to successful inter-racial marriages. But, she declared, it was the obligation of Christians to work toward changing the public's view on the matter.

She added recent scientific studies had proved false the belief that inter-racial marriage breeds the worst characteristics of both races.

Boy Santa Missed To Get New Hands

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)—Five-year-old David Cookson, who wept when Santa Claus failed to bring the hands he lost in an accident three years ago, is going to receive an answer to his prayers.

The youngster, who learned to draw with a crayon held between his arm stumps, broke into tears on Christmas Day because his gifts did not include the "new fingers" for which he had prayed.

The little boy's story was published in the newspapers and immediately well-wishers began sending contributions to the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cookson of nearby Waymart. The donations ranged from a $1,000 gift to the weekly allowance of a nine-year-old who had learned of David's plight. Scranton American Legion officials underwrote a fund to provide David with artificial hands. Today the boy who prayed for "new fingers" prepared for his first fitting.

The cornerstone was recently laid for the new University of Caen, in France, which was founded in 1432.

FOUR INDICTED IN BRIBE CASE

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Four men were indicted Monday on charges of attempting to bribe a player to "fix" college basketball games.

A New York county (Manhattan) grand jury indicted all four defendants, and a federal grand jury in Washington, D. C., indicted three of them.

The accused — all free in bail of $20,000 each — are: Jay Levy, 40, of Miami, Fla.; William Rivlin, 43; Joseph Aronowitz, 35, and Philip Klein, 34. The last three are from New York.

They have denied the charges since their arrest here last Tuesday night. They were accused by David Shapiro of New York, co-captain of the basketball team of George Washington university, Washington, of offering him a $1,000 bribe to throw a game at Madison Square Garden that night.

The Washington indictments named Levy, Aronowitz and Klein. Assistant U. S. Attorney John W. Finely said the indictments were based on offers allegedly made to Shapiro last month in a Washington hotel. If convicted the defendants would be liable to a maximum of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Conviction on the New York indictments could bring imprisonment from one to five years and a fine up to $10,000.

Littlestown. — Commander Kenneth L. Steick was in charge of the semi-monthly meeting of the Mason and Dixon Memorial Post No. 6954, VFW, held Tuesday evening in the post home, West King street. Clayton Noble, Jr., and Bernard Stuller, both transferred from Hanover Post No. 2506, were elected into membership. One new member was initiated, Ralph Edward Newman, who was balloted on at the last meeting. The post voted to donate $2.00 to the VFW home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. It was announced that there will be a meeting of the 21st district of the VFW on Sunday, January 30, at 2 p. m. with Hanover Post No. 2506 as the host post. The new post home of the Hanover VFW, will be ready for this meeting and all local post members are urged to attend. The

Good News For Folks Who Suffer From

- STOMACH GAS
- ACID FOOD TASTE
- ACID INDIGESTION

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from this nervous distress.

Every time food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up complex food particles; else the food may ferment, sour, and cause indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, lousy, flatulent, nervous, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance.

This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red blood you should eat better, sleep better, work better, play better.

Avoid poisoning yourself with over-doses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

proxies, or a total of 39,202 out of 50,000. The proxies were voted by Charles B. Bender.

The report of President Willis showed that $50,000 had been added again to the surplus fund and the bank paid its usual eight per cent dividend during the year. The president's report was adopted and the actions of the board of directors during 1948 were approved.

First National Bank of Fairfield
Robert C. Neely was elected president of the First National bank, Fairfield, at the annual reorganization meeting of the board of directors Tuesday afternoon. John E.
Brown was named vice president;
Wesley Schable, cashier; Kenneth Slonaker, teller; Mrs. Virginia L.
Sipes, clerk, and Keith, Bigham and Markley were named as attorneys.
J. E. Zimmerman, bank president for many years, was re-elected chairman of the board.

Littlestown National
The directors of the Littlestown
National bank, following their election on Tuesday afternoon, met and effected the following reorganization for the coming year: President,
Dr. Howard A. Stoner; vice president, Paul E. Lawyer; secretary,
John H. Marker; cashier, Arthur E.
Bair; assistant cashier and trust officer, Theron W. Spangler; assistant trust officer, Miss Anna C.
Weaver; bookkeepers, Miss Mary
Rita Redding and J. Robert Sell; and tellers, Mrs. Betty R. Baker and Ray C. Harner. There were 9,818 votes out of 15,000 cast at the stockholders' meeting.

Farmers' Bank, McSherrystown
John H. Menges, Ira Fuhrman,
Paul Eiserman, Charles A. Myers,
Norbert J. Small, Charles E. Brady and Dr. Mark L. Redding all were elected as directors of the Farmers'
Bank of McSherrystown. A total of 811 of 1,000 shares of stock was voted.

People's State Bank, East Berlin
Stockholders of the People's State Bank of East Berlin voted 3,100 of the institution's 5,000 shares to re-elect the same directors and officers as for 1948. They are as follows:

Philadelphia, Jan. 12 (AP) — The 12th annual Maxwell Football club award for the outstanding football player of 1948 last night was given to Chuck Bednarik, Penn's All-American center.

Bednarik accepted for three people in Bethlehem, Pa.—his parents and his wife, who had supplied him encouragement in his football career.

Los Angeles, Jan. 12 (AP)—Jordan
Olivar of Villanova college will be the new football coach at Loyola University of Los Angeles, the Times predicts today.

The newspaper quoted the Rev.
Lorenzo Malone, Loyola athletic director, as saying only that Olivar is one of 61 applicants under consideration but the story said an announcement is due by Thursday night.

Samuel E. Altland, Albert Berkheimer, J. Monroe Danner, J. Monroe Anthony, George R. Glatfelter,
P. Lawrence Hoover, H. J. March,
Dr. T. C. Miller and Jonas Gruver.
The board immediately organized by electing Dr. Miller, president; P. L.
Hoover, vice president; Mr. Altland, secretary; J. Bruce Macley, cashier;
John R. Wisler, assistant cashier;
Mrs. Gloria Geiselman, teller.

Farmers' and Merchants' Bank
New Oxford

"Directors of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank at New Oxford were elected as follows: Charles E.
Alwine, C. L. Eicholtz, H. B. Flaherty, Edgar K. Markey, David E.
Winebrenner, 3rd, Warren Baugher and William H. Snyder, Jr. At the organization meeting H. B. Flaherty was named president; Mr. Eicholtz, vice president; Mr. Alwine, secretary; C. Robert Brothers, cashier, and Miss Dorothy R. Baugher, assistant cashier.

Fireman Rescues Mother, 2 Kiddies

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—While on his way to work Fireman George C.
Mayer, yesterday, saw smoke curling from a third-floor apartment in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Ida Thompson, 30, appeared at a window, a small son under each arm. Mayer stationed himself under the window, ordered Mrs. Thompson to drop the boys one at a time. He caught both.

Then he organized onlookers into a life net of locked arms, and had Mrs. Thompson jump into that. She landed, burned about the face and body, unhurt by the fall.

Mayer went to a fire box, and turned in an alarm. When fire crews

on his way to work.

RUSSIA TRIES FOR CONTROL IN MIDDLE EAST

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

This new British-Israeli outburst is so complicated and so terribly dangerous that your columnist returns to it a second day.

One of the troubles in examining a situation with so many angles is that there is a danger we shall let our vision be limited by local conditions. What we need to do is cut out some of the trees so we can see the forest. Therefore let's get busy with the ax.

The current quarrel of course is the outgrowth of the Arab-Jewish conflict. And the Arab-Jewish imbroglio, like most other important international developments has become involved in the cold war between Russia and the anti-Communist countries.

Dangerous Element

It is one of those dangerous elements which might precipitate another world war, because power-politics have become involved.

Russia very quietly and slyly has entered the picture. The British charge that Czechoslovakia is violating the Palestine arms embargo by sending supplies to Israel. Since Czechoslovakia moves only as Moscow pulls the strings, we are left with the clear inference that these sinews of war are in effect coming from the Soviet Union.

What is the significance of this? The answer is that Russia appears to be preparing to try to capitalize the defeat which the Jewish forces have inflicted on the forces of the neighboring Arab nations. This whole great middle-east theatre long has been within the British zone of influence—a vastly important feature of her imperial defenses, Russia now is maneuvering for control.

Right here it should be said that, so far as I know, nobody has suggested that Israel is playing ball with Russia. The Israeli need arms and

ROTARY CLUB

Paul's Lutheran church on Tuesday evening, Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, professor of systematic theology in the Gettysburg Seminary spoke on "Why We Believe in the Church," which was based on St. Matthew 16:18, "I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Church Goes On

The speaker said: "Despite the many indictments against the church 'that it is bad,' that it is much ado about nothing and that it is a failure, the church goes on. It continues to worship God and preach the gospel. It continues to build new churches and to send its missionaries to new lands. The people will not let the church die because Jesus believed in it. They will not let it die because it is indispensable and because it is the champion of the high and the right against the low and wrong."

The Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church was in charge of the service. He read St. Matthew 16:13 to 19 as the scripture lesson. A community senior choir furnished the special music. They sang, "The Triumph Song" by Rogers. Ray Hoover, York, organist at St. Paul's was the director of the choir. Dr. Rasmussen pronounced the benediction.

The service tonight will be in charge of the Rev. David S. Kammerer, host pastor. Dr. Rasmussen will use as his theme, "To Pray without Ceasing." Special music tonight will be furnished by Howard Walker, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Victor Carlson of Gettysburg. Mr. Walker is a member of the Gettysburg seminary choir.

Heiges Orders Removal Of 12 Tons Of Waste Paper, Burlap Bags From Local Residence

Borough highway department employees, working at the direction of Burgess C. A. Heiges, were completing today the removal of an accumulation of years of waste paper from a Gettysburg home about which many complaints have been received. The house and its accumulation of paper had been condemned by Fire Marshal Eugene S. Sickles as a fire and health hazard. In Wednesday's Times the fire marshal appealed to local residents not to give the collector any more refuse.

Cart Is Buried
The burgess' order Wednesday was the culmination of the work of several weeks in attempting to clean up this hazard, he said today. Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster contacted borough employees Wednesday and, on orders of the burgess, directed them to begin the cleanup.
"Papers were piled so high in the kitchen of this home that there was only a walk-way between," the burgess said today. "Borough employees removed a ton and a half of paper from the kitchen and back porch," he added.
"Even this man's cart which he had used to collect waste paper, was lost in the kitchen. It was buried under huge piles," the burgess said.

Water-soaked Paper
"In the garden there were hundreds of burlap sacks containing old paper, most of it badly water-soaked. In the barn back of the house, there wasn't room for one more newspaper."
Burgess Heiges estimated that at least 12 tons of paper were removed from the premises. A small amount of it was sold to a junk dealer, but the biggest part was worthless, and was taken to the dump, where what could be burned was being destroyed today, he said.
It took seven highway employees and a large highway department truck two full days to remove the debris. The fire and health hazard has been removed, and Burgess Heiges today echoed the fire marshal's appeal not to give this collector any more paper.

LITTLESTOWN JOINT SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Acting on the recommendation of Supervising Principal Paul E. King, the executive board of the Littlestown Joint School system meeting in monthly session on Wednesday evening in the Littlestown high school library voted to purchase stage curtains for $396 from the Premier Studios of New York. These curtains are to replace certain drops of the present set which are worn beyond repair.

Treasurer James R. Streig submitted the following report for the months of December 1948: Receipts for general operation of the jointure, $14,109.49 and for capital outlay, $5,917.68. Expenditures were: General control, $379.14; instructional purposes, $9,029.46; auxiliary agencies, $1,632.56; co-ordinate activities, $250; operation of school plants, $426.30; maintenance of plants, $127.27; fixed charges, $92.06 and capital outlay, $4,600.88 leaving a balance of $3,839.50 in the jointure treasury on January 1, 1949.
Supervising Principal Kings' report included the following activities of the school for the past month: Mr. Fitz, co-ordinator of industrial education for the state, visited the high school on December (Please Turn To Page 4)

Claims Army Truck Damaged His Auto

Borough police have turned over to Carlisle police and military police at the Carlisle Barracks for investigation the report of Henry Clark, Gettysburg R. 2, that an army truck, going north on Baltimore street Wednesday struck his car and failed to stop. Police said damage was about $30.
Automobiles operated by Charles J. Toot, 452 Baltimore street and John D. Mogart, Dover, Pa., figured in a collision in Center square Tuesday. Total damages was estimated at $20, police said.

COUNTDOWN IS FINED
Russell Henry Potter, Aspers, arrested Wednesday night by state police of the Gettysburg substation on a disorderly conduct charge, was fined $10 and cost by Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder, after spending the night in jail.

Three Are Fined On Code Charges

Warren Hodges, Kirklyn, Pa., paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Roy Martin, Biglerville, on a charge of operating a car over the center line of the highway, according to state police of the Gettysburg substation, who filed the charge.
Donald Donnelly, Hanover, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace L. G. Kuhn, Midway, on a reckless driving charge.
James Hess, Lancaster, paid $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Robert Bell, Gettysburg R. 4, for speeding.

CITE 19 FIREMEN FOR FAILURE TO BE AT MEETINGS

Nineteen members of the Gettysburg fire department will have an opportunity to appear at the February meeting and show cause why their names should not be dropped from the rolls, as the result of action taken Wednesday night at the regular January meeting held at the engine house.
Two months ago a committee, composed of the officers and the chiefs of the fire department, was appointed to go over the rolls and make recommendations with a view to dropping members for non-attendance. The committee submitted its report Wednesday night and made these recommendations both of which were adopted:
To Ask Five To Retire
That the secretary send letters to 19 members of the fire department, notifying them to attend the February meeting on February 9, and submit good and sufficient reasons why they have not been attending meetings and responding to fire alarms.
That five members of the company eligible to retire to the inactive list be asked to do so.

Three members of the company were placed on the inactive list Wednesday night at their own request: George Ditchburn, A. E. Hutchison and Paul Oyler. Five new members were added to the department, Clair Newman, S. Charles Smith, Isalah P. Stotler, T. J. Col. (Please Turn To Page 3)

VFW MAY MOVE INTO LEE-MEADE INN THIS MONTH

The possibility that the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post may be able to move to new quarters in the Lee-Meade Inn by the end of this month was revealed Wednesday evening at a meeting of the post home association held at the post home on Carlisle street.

William Eckenrode, president of the board of directors of the home association and W. H. Armor, of the committee, reported that rapid progress is being made in the plans for the veterans to take over the inn a mile south of here along the Emmitsburg road and added that unless some complication arises the post may be able to move there this month.

Nominate Directors
Nominations for the 11 posts on the board of directors of the home association occupied most of the meeting which was held immediately after the regular VFW session. Among those nominated Wednesday were: John Hewitt, Philip Dunn, Wendell Cass, W. H. Armor, Joseph Bowling, Robert Deardorff, C. Edward Beard, T. C. Collingsworth, Francis Bowling, William Eckenrode, John L. Millard, Jacob Appler, Basil Smith, Vincent Sanders, C. Leslie (Please Turn To Page 7)

Physician Declares Socialized Medicine Bill Will Be Approved

Speaking on the history of socialism and socialized medicine Wednesday afternoon before the Woman's Club of Gettysburg at its regular meeting in the YWCA, Dr. Roy W. Gifford said a new socialized medicine bill was being prepared for introduction in Congress, and predicted that it would pass.
"It is being backed by all the Communist front organizations, a list of which covers five sheets of paper," he said, "and if anyone here thinks they will stop with medicine they are on unsafe grounds."
Dr. Gifford said that the history of the medical profession showed that it has welcomed and worked for changes for the public welfare. "State medicine," he said, "within a certain range, has its place in a democracy, but socialized medicine is not a medical problem. If we socialize medicine, why don't we socialize groceries, radios or automobiles?"
Traces Socialism
Tracing the history of socialism, Dr. Gifford said it was written about by Plato; Sir Thomas Moore decided in 1400 that it was good for England. It spread to New Harmony, Ind. All of these attempts failed. The real beginnings of socialism or communism, which is the same thing only that it goes farther, Dr. Gifford said, was in 1865 in this country, when it was backed by Albert Brisbane, Horace Greeley and George William Curtis.
"Karl Marx was the father of communism, which is scientific socialism," the speaker said. "The difference between this and democratic socialism is that in the former nothing is left to chance. The government controls everything."
Socialism Hurts Medicine
"The philosophy behind socialized medicine," Dr. Gifford said, "is a political philosophy. Germany lost its preeminence in medicine through socialism. Vienna became the center of medical knowledge, but it too has lost it, until today there is no class A system of medicine in Europe."
"The socialists pick on medicine because people fear illness. The first socialized medicine bill in the United States, the Murray-Wagner-Dignell bill, was introduced in 1939, and has been re-introduced in every Congress since. A new bill is coming up, and I think it will pass."
"I think the bill is going to be milder than we anticipated. That means that they have backed water, but they are smart, and they play the same game here that they do in Russia."

COMMITTEE ON POLIO CAMPAIGN IS ANNOUNCED

The general committee for the annual March of Dimes drive sponsored by the Adams County Infantile Paralysis fund was announced today by Mrs. Joseph E. Codori, chairman.
The committee includes: Mrs. Harvey Raffensperger, Arendtsville; Mrs. Alfred Fidler, Aspers-Bendersville; Mrs. Wilmer Bream, Biglerville; Mary Bittinger, Cashtown; Miss Dorothy Resser, East Berlin; Mrs. Jay Brown, Fairfield; Mrs. Charles Weikert, Littlestown; Irene Miller, McSherrystown; M. D. DeTar and J. W. Cook, New Oxford; Mrs. Ross Koons, York Springs and Mrs. Charles E. Weaver, Mrs. Roy W. Gifford, Mrs. Ann Crouse, Mares Sherman, Richard Codori, Fred Pfeffer and Mrs. Bruce N. Wolfe, Gettysburg.

Members of the committees in the various towns have tickets for the annual dance, to be held January 31, it was announced, and persons not contacted who wish to become sponsors for the affair, or who wish to secure individual tickets for the dance may obtain them from committee members.

PAUL A. MARTIN DIES SUDDENLY ON WEDNESDAY

Paul A. Martin, 67, died suddenly Wednesday evening at 8:10 o'clock in the trailer which he and his wife occupied at the home of William Cole, Buchanan Valley. Death was due to coronary occlusion.
Mr. Martin, who had been in his usual health Wednesday, suffered from a heart condition for some time. He was seated in the trailer when he was stricken and died before the arrival of a physician.

The deceased was a native of Adams county, a son of the late State Senator William A. and Mary Matilda (Beamer) Martin.
Was Charter Elk
He graduated from Gettysburg college in 1903 and was a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. Upon graduation from college he became clerk in the former Citizens Trust company here and remained with that institution until 1925 when he became a bond salesman. In 1928 he joined the General Electric company and three years later (Please Turn To Page 2)

Need More Money
Large banners have been placed in the square here advertising the March of Dimes. In addition containers are located in most business establishments for donations. While the nationwide campaign for funds begins Friday, the local campaign has already begun, it was pointed out.
Funds for polio care and research are needed now more than ever, it was pointed out. The cost of care is increasing and each year additional persons in the county are added to the list of those aided by the fund. The money raised in the county is divided with the National foundation.

BULLETINS

San Francisco, Jan. 13 (AP)—The CAA reported Bill Odom, who is trying for a 5,285 mile flight record for small planes, only 80 miles from Seattle at 8:30 a. m. (PST) today.

The CAA radio station here established contact with the small Beechcraft Bonanza plane in which Odom left Honolulu last night. He was flying at 9,000 feet.

Powered by a 185 horsepower engine, the gleaming silver Beechcraft Bonanza lifted smoothly from the Honolulu airport last night at 6:32 p. m. (11:32 p. m. EST) into the Hawaiian moonlight.

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Dean Acheson, nominee for secretary of state, testified today that he and Alger Hiss are friends "and we remain friends."

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, quickly led a hearing on the nomination into the question of Acheson's relations with Hiss, his former subordinate in the State Department.

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Truman received today from Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador, an outline of Britain's views on the Palestine situation. Mr. Truman and the ambassador conferred for nearly a half hour at the White House.

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Herbert Hoover asked Congress today to give President Truman broad power to overhaul the government, declaring that present disorder is costing the nation "heavily."

The former Republican chief executive, chairman of a commission on government reorganization, urged that Mr. Truman be granted even greater re-shuffling authority than that which Congress reluctantly gave President Roosevelt in 1939.

Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 13 (AP)—One or two persons were killed and at least 15 were injured by the explosion of a bomb in a Cairo square today. A cigarette seller was killed in the blast. A report circulated that a policeman also was fatally injured, but the report lacked confirmation.

KILLED IN CRASH
Lewistown, Pa., Jan. 13 (AP)—A father was killed and two sons injured in an automobile accident near Millerstown last night while driving to Harrisburg to attend the state fair show. Jesse H. Hall, of Fleming, died in the Lewistown hospital several hours after the Hall car and another automobile collided at a road intersection.

Inaugurate Winter Square Dancing At Country Club Tonight

Square dancing at the Gettysburg Country club has become so popular with the members that a series of regular dances to continue through the winter is being inaugurated this evening. Dancing begins at 9 o'clock.
Ralph Wagner and the North Mountain Fiddlers from Sterrett's Gap will furnish the music for the dancing and Miss Betty Adam of the Gettysburg high school faculty will call the figures.
Miss Adam inaugurated the square dancing in October with a series of four lessons. When the club members finished that training period and inspired fiddlers and figure callers they had difficulty in understanding the professional figure callers and Miss Adam was re-called to perform that service.
This evening's affair also will serve as a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Riley Heckert. Mr. Heckert soon will begin his duties as the new golf pro at the club.
A committee will provide refreshments for the evening.

CRIST ORDERS INQUEST INTO WOMAN'S DEATH

An inquest into the death of Hannah Weidner Flock, 44, who was fatally injured at Table Rock Tuesday evening at 5:45 o'clock when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Kenneth Guise, Biglerville, will be held at the court house Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock it was announced today by Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams county coroner.

It was learned today that the victim and her nine-year-old son, George, had left Lower's store in Table Rock where they had gone for mail and groceries and were en route to their home at Table Rock Station, about a mile and one-half south of Table Rock, when the accident occurred.

Saved Son's Life
The woman and her son were walking on the right side of the road with traffic and, according to the son, his mother pushed him off to the side just before she was struck from the rear.

It was further learned today that a car was approaching in the opposite direction at the same time the accident took place.

Mrs. Guise was taken to Lower's store where she was treated for shock. The youngster was taken to the home of Richard Ditzler where it was found he was uninjured.

Neighbors are reported to have warned the victim previously against walking on the highway. It was said that customarily she walked to Table Rock during daylight but was late on the evening of the accident.

Attorney Markley Heads Bar Group

Atty. Edgar K. Markley was elected president of the Adams County Bar association Wednesday afternoon at the annual meeting of the organization held in the law library. He succeeds Atty. Eugene V. Bulleit.

Atty. Donald P. McPherson, Jr., was named vice president and Atty. Daniel E. Teeter secretary-treasurer. Atty. William L. Meals retired after over 30 years of service as an officer of the organization. He was secretary for the bar association from 1916 until the present with the exception of three years, 1945-47 when he served as president. Re-nominated for the post of secretary at Wednesday's session he declined with thanks and asked that someone else take the post.

Plans for a dinner to be held this month prior to the opening to the January term of court were discussed.

Corporal Stoops Given Promotion

Fort Sam Houston, Texas, Jan. 13 (AP)—Cpl. William D. Stoops, son of H. Russell Stoops, Gettysburg R. D., has been promoted to sergeant, Fourth Army headquarters announced today. He is with the 97th Machine Records Unit, Headquarters Fourth Army.

Stoops is married and has two children, Joyce Louise, 12, and William Daniel, Jr., eight years of age. His family reside in Waynesboro. He is a graduate of Gettysburg high school and attended a business college prior to entering the army. He was graduated from the Adjutant General's school at Camp Lee, Va., before coming to Fort Sam Houston. Stoops holds the American theater, Asiatic Pacific and Victory ribbons.

WILLIE HOWARD DIES

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Willie Howard, 62, one of America's top stage comedians, died yesterday of a liver ailment. He had played leading roles in major musical comedies and revues for more than 35 years. His last show was "Along Fifth Avenue," which he left last December 8.

Franklin Moore Urges Education Of Youth In Freedom To Save Nation At Annual Times Dinner

America is going the way of England and France, and other nations of Europe on the road to government controls and socialism, and the only way it can be stopped is by educating the coming generation in what freedom is and what it means to them, Franklin Moore, president and managing director of the Penn-Harris hotel, Harrisburg, declared, in an address Wednesday night at the fifth annual dinner of the Times and News Publishing company held at the Hotel Gettysburg.
"We can lose this freedom of ours so easily . . . in fact, it sometimes appears that the time is growing short in which we can continue to enjoy it," Mr. Moore warned. "The eternal price of liberty is eternal vigilance. We refer to our freedom as our inherent right, forgetting all the time that we have liberty and rights because our forefathers were willing to leave their plowshares and fight to attain them for us, and not too many of us today are courageous or willing enough to even participate in public affairs for fear of jeopardizing our business or the property we have accumulated."

Be Conscious Of Freedom
Pointing out that the need is to look forward to the next generation instead of projecting thoughts and policies only as far as the next election, the speaker described such thinking as the difference between statesmen and politicians.

"The solution to the problem presented by this trend toward socialism, if there is any answer to it at all, is finding a way to make this and the next generation acquire a real consciousness of what freedom is and what America is. Our America is different than any other nation in the world. It is the nation where the greatest wealth in the world is most widely distributed and where the poorest man is much better off than the average and even the well-to-do man in other countries. The competition of free enterprise has made this so."

"We have, through inventions and production, tremendously improved our efficiency and advanced our standards. We have advanced so far that frequently we don't know where we are but with it all we haven't progressed one inch along the road of how to live in peace and prosperity."

The speaker said only a very few of the so-called democracies of the world actually afford free government and he cited several conferences in Europe and South America in which representatives of business groups were not allowed to talk unless a representative of their government was present at their side.

Government Controls
"In England," Mr. Moore said, "a man was sent to jail for not asking permission to repair the porch of his own bombed house. Then we began to find out that there were just as flagrant controls adopted in the United States in the last ten years. A man in Minnesota wasn't allowed to sell his wheat because he had raised too much. So he fed the grain to his own pigs, killed the pigs and fed his own family with them. He went to jail for two years because he didn't do what the government told him to do."

Mr. Moore said it was proposed to adopt a zoning ordinance in Pennsylvania which would prevent the construction of any building on private property within 500 feet of a state highway without the approval of a commission which will decide if the buildings are artistically appropriate.

Controls Are Dangerous
"All isms creep up insidiously. They don't blossom overnight. It has been proven in many countries of the world how easy it is with specious promises to take over the birthrights of the people. It can happen here for there is no place where you can put government controls" (Please Turn To Page 8)

File Report For Liberty Township

The annual report for Liberty township was filed Wednesday afternoon with the clerk of courts by the township auditors, A. M. Sites and M. R. Lott.

The report showed income of $5,135.85 for the year, including a $762.94 balance from 1947, current tax revenue of $887.21, prior tax collections of $359.24; county aid of $2,241.64. Expenditures included, general government, $449.35; highways, $3,860.51; miscellaneous, $171.13, leaving a balance as of the beginning of this year of $654.85.

Janitor Honored By GHS Students

A brief memorial service was held by students of Gettysburg high school Wednesday at a noon assembly in honor of the late Harry D. Daugherty.

Bruce Westerdahl, president of the student council, spoke in tribute to Mr. Daugherty as a "gentleman and a friend." Jean Mountain recited the poem, "Crossing the Bar." Two hymns were sung by the assembly and there was a period of silent meditation.

CHINESE REDS OFFER TERMS

Feiping, Jan. 13 (P) — Chinese Communists have laid down specific conditions for the beginning of national peace talks, a source here said today.

He listed them as:

1. Removal of Chiang Kai-shek and Vice President Li Tsung-jen from office.
2. Scrapping of the Chinese constitution.
3. A mutual cease fire order with both sides holding their present positions.
4. Examination and punishment of "war criminals." Chiang heads the Communist's list.
5. Establishment of a coalition government with a five, three, four ratio — five Communist members, three Kuomintang and four representing all other Chinese political parties.

The Communists, according to this source, apparently did not specify whether the Kuomintang referred to was the present party or the "Kuomintang revolutionaries" as the Reds classify Marshal Li Chi-sen and other Kuomintang dissidents. This naturally would be an important point for Nanking.

This same source predicted Chiang would issue another statement in which he would resign the presidency and go to Formosa. He said this statement might be issued tomorrow.

AGED RECLUSE LEAVES $100,000

Media, Pa., Jan. 13 (P) — Sarah Mallin Caldwell, 81-year-old recluse whose death last Dec. 23 was attributed to malnutrition, left an estate valued at more than $100,000, it was disclosed by her will filed for probate yesterday in Delaware county court.

Miss Caldwell's body was found last month in her small home at Chester, Pa. — a house which police said was without electric lights and which was heated by a coal stove in the kitchen and an oil heater she carried from room to room.

The coroner's office later said she had died as a result of malnutrition.

Under the will, Miss Caldwell left her entire estate to a first cousin, Mrs. Louisa Johnson Flounders, of Media, a partially blind widow.

Miss Caldwell's attorney, William Taylor, Jr., said a search of the Chester house disclosed $7,900 in bills hidden in cans, drawers and under rugs as well as $540 in coins. Since her death, Taylor said, it has been learned Miss Caldwell also left $46,000 in negotiable bonds, $30,000 in mortgages, a number of valuable antiques and another home.

Civil War Vet Dies In Indiana

The list of Indiana Civil war veterans has been pared to one with the death of William E. Whittinghill, 100-year-old former boy in blue. Mr. Whittinghill died January 3, at his home in Lebanon, Ind.

He was a native of Harrodsburg, Ky., and was a sergeant in Co. B, Fourth Kentucky Infantry. He was captured by Southern Troops and spent two years in the infamous prison camp at Andersonville, Ga.

Being only 15 years old at the time of his imprisonment, he was placed on the prisoner exchange list, and shipped back to Northern territory.

Mr. Whittinghill was the uncle of the late L. L. Whittinghill, former superintendent of the Gettysburg Panel company, and the great-uncle of E. Thomas Whittinghill, formerly of Gettysburg, now residing in Waynesboro.

Suffers Fracture Of Skull In Fall

Wilmer Knouse, 26, Bendersville, suffered a fractured skull in a fall down a stairway at his home Wednesday morning.

He was removed to the Warner hospital late Wednesday afternoon in the ambulance and later was transferred to the Bon Secours hospital, Baltimore, for observance under a neuro-surgeon.

His condition was reported to have improved slightly.

ADmits SLAYING U.S. INSPECTOR

Oklahoma City, Jan. 13 (P) — One of Oklahoma City's twin slayings appeared solved beyond question today, but the other — an almost mirror image — was a deeper mystery than ever.

Joseph Donnelly, 69, admitted shooting down Postal Inspector E. M. Harkins, 51, in the downtown post office yesterday.

U. S. District Attorney Robert Shelton said he will ask the Federal Grand Jury for a murder indictment against Donnelly today. Donnelly pleaded innocent at his arraignment before the U. S. commissioner although he repeatedly admitted the killing.

Police learned Donnelly's reasons when they read the letter he carried in his pocket. It was written last July to President Truman, but never mailed.

"I love you Mr. President . . ." it started, and went on for pages. It was a confiding recital of an eight-year grudge against the Post Office department.

The letter threw no light on the similar killing of Attorney Earl Pruet, 16 hours before and three blocks away in the 32-story First National building. No motive, and few clues, are known to police in this case. Pruet's killer escaped unhindered down an elevator.

Both men were shot from behind.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13 (P) — Jordan Olivar, a resourceful young coach who led Villanova into bowl games the past two seasons, today considered an offer to become head coach at Loyola University of Los Angeles. Olivar, who is 34 and never played any football until he got to college, says salary is the only bar to staying on at Villanova. The little eastern Pennsylvania school reportedly pays him only $5,000. At Loyola he would get about double that.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13 (P) — The Atlantic Refining Co., today began a third round of price reductions in heavy fuel oil with cuts ranging from 10 to 22 cents a barrel in barge and tank car lots. A cut of about 25 cents a barrel was announced by the company on Dec. 27 and another cut of 25 cents a barrel earlier this month.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13 (P) — Fire raced through the First Baptist church in downtown Philadelphia today. First firemen to reach the scene were unable to enter the building because of the density of the choking smoke. Driven back from an approach through the church auditorium, firemen attempted to reach the basement from another point. Ladders were thrown up.

DEATH

Abram Dillman

Word has been received by Mrs. Charles T. Jacobs, West Middle street, of the death on January 4 of Abram Dillman, a former resident of Adams county, in Woosung, Ill.

The deceased was a native of Butler township and was a son of the late William F. and Catherine (Carey) Dillman. He left this section for the west about 42 years ago. He had been in ill health since last June. He was aged about 72 years.

Surviving are his widow, Hannah Dillman; a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Dresden, and two grandchildren, Eileen and Eddie; two brothers, Joseph Dillman, Camp Hill; and William Dillman, Littlestown; and two sisters, Miss Mary Dillman of Gettysburg and Mrs. Sally Weaver, Harrisburg.

Funeral services and interment were held last Friday at Woosung.

WORTHWHILE ORNAMENTAL VINES

Vines merit greater emphasis in plans for the home grounds. Because of their numerous flowering, fruiting and foliage habits they fill many indispensable roles on walls, porches, trellises, fences and other types of support. Here are a few of the leading vines to consider for early spring planting, except for the described annual vines, which require a different form of culture.

Among woody, perennial vines for permanent roles there are few to equal the Clematis genus. Every grower of ornamental plants should study nursery catalogues to appreciate the variety and types of beautiful flowering vines included in this hardy group. All of them may be set out in early spring.

The Silver Lace vine usually shows its maximum beauty on a porch or fairly large trellis. It is vigorous, attains extremely large size and bears white flowers. It makes but a light shade.

Most Americans are well acquainted with the native wild honeysuckle. But few persons appreciate the full worth of the several improved honeysuckles among reigning ornamentals. These are found listed in catalogues as Lonicera. They are worthy vines for both foliage and flower. They fit well into many roles, especially on small trellises.

The Matrimony Vine (Lycium halimifolium) is popular for covering banks and other areas where a fast-spreading cover is needed. It bears white flowers.

False Bittersweet, listed as Celastrus scandens, also the Japanese Bittersweet (Celastrus orbiculatus) are two more fine flowering and berry-bearing vines. The true Bittersweet found growing wild in this country is a genus of the Solanum family of plants and is thereby distantly related to the potato, tomato, tobacco and other relatives of the nightshades.

For use on walls three woody vines are recommended: Virginia Creeper (Ampelopsis quinquefolia), Winter-Creeper (Euonymus radicans), and Japanese Creeper (Ampelopsis tricuspidata). All three cling to brick, stone or other surfaces. The latter is often used in shady places. The first named of the three can always be distinguished from Poison Ivy by the fact that it bears five leaves (meaning of "quinquefolia") while Poison Ivy bears its leaves in groups of three.

Among annual vines there are several deserving wider use as ornamentals. Most of these are easily grown from seed sown in individual pots under glass in early spring and the plants moved to their growing places after frost dangers are past.

These include Bryonia, Moonflower, Cup-and-Saucer vine, Balloonvine, numerous ornamental gourds, Hyacinth Bean, Sweet Peas, Nasturtiums, Cypress Vine, Scarlet Runner Bean, Balsam Apple and Morning Glories.

Morning Glories have outstripped the weed class which they used to occupy. Improved types, such as the Heavenly Blue and Scarlet O'Hara, rightly rank among the most beautiful of all fragile flowers. Growers are urged to give some of these, often listed as Ipomoea, a trial. They are truly regal on small neat trellises.

The more temperamental but hardy permanent vines worth adopting are, of course, the wisterias. Only grafted stock from a reputable nursery is worth planting.

IT'S TIME TO ORDER CATALOGUES

From the editor's chair around the calendar year can be seen numerous obstacles which bar flower growers, vegetable gardeners, orchardists and farmers from attaining the full measure of success almost within their grasp. Of course, small as they individually are, these obstacles in the aggregate erect a formidable wall of handicaps. One of these stumbling blocks, particularly timely in January, is the lack of seed and nursery catalogues.

Almost trite in its frequent repetition is the fact that garden catalogues are harbingers of spring. But they are far more than that. They are true missionaries of gardening truth. They introduce growers to new varieties and occasionally to new species. They are bearers of good news in the form of varieties to resist destructive plant diseases and to offer greater immunity to insect ravages. They provide instructions for improving the appearance of the home grounds, for expanding the usefulness of the vegetable garden, for bringing fruit trees, vines and brambles. They are, in fact, indispensable for every person who "makes things grow."

Of course, none can doubt the services seed and nursery catalogues render civilized man merely as a means of mental and muscular stimulation. Many gardening authorities have said that beautiful ornamental gardens and vegetable gardens must first take form on paper. But even earlier than this preliminary step to gardening accomplishments is the incentive, the urge to make such plans. To date man has never invented anything so overwhelmingly invigorating as a newly arrived seed and nursery catalogue. Even the price lists augmented by the forces of inflation are spirit-lifting when one imagines those massive delphiniums or those delectable rosy-red tomatoes.

Catalogues are easy to obtain. Large seed firms and nurseries use the catalogue as their chief source of advertising their products. They not only urge the public to write for copies, they spend vast sums to acquaint the public with the fact that their catalogues are free for the asking. There are anywhere from 100 to 250 seed and nursery catalogues of various sizes and types offered each winter and spring. Every gardener, orchardist and farmer should have at least six to a dozen for study, inspiration and actual purchasing purposes.

Many persons do not have the names and addresses of concerns offering free catalogues. One of the best ways to obtain such information is to subscribe to or buy a December, January or February copy of any or several farm and gardening magazines. On the advertising pages will be found numerous appeals for growers to write for the annual issues. A postal card usually turns the trick.

But of course, actual benefits from catalogues in terms of production call for purchases. If local dealers handle the particular seeds and plants, by all means patronize them. If nurseries are within driving distance, visit them to inspect their plants. But in all cases where superior seeds and plants are procurable only from distant firms, the catalogue is the common bridge of space, the bearer of good tidings.

And not among the least of facts to bear in mind is this: Do not postpone ordering. Get your catalogue soon; place orders as early as possible. These, too, are steps to more success in the home grounds, garden and orchard.

Vegetable gardeners should turn attention to coldframes early in January, not only because they will be needed within two or three weeks, but because postponement of building and equipping may later be interfered with by other crowding tasks. Every gardener needs plenty of coldframe space. And likewise, every gardener can afford at least a small frame or two.

Location of frames is an important matter, especially those that are to be in use during the colder weeks

Upper Communities

Recent accessions to Christ Lutheran church, Aspers, included Mr. and Mrs. Merle Eisenhart, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gratton, Mrs. Romaine Reinecker and Robert Pyles.

The Rev. Dr. O. D. Coble, pastor of the church administered the rite of infant baptism to Gregory Lynn and Samuel Eugene, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhart, and to Thomas Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mickey.

The Volunteer class of St. Paul's Lutheran Sunday school, Biglerville, met Tuesday evening at the parsonage with the new president, Mrs. Paul F. Osborn, presiding. Plans for the annual Friendly Sister banquet which will be held at Fidler's restaurant Friday evening, February 11, were discussed and also plans for the baked ham supper which the class will hold in the social rooms of the church on Saturday evening, January 29, for the purpose of raising money for the building fund.

Serving as hostesses during the social hour were Mrs. Roy Himes, Mrs. Charles Raffensperger, Miss Grace Hare, Mrs. Henry W. Sternat and Mrs. Earl Garretson.

Mrs. Harry Gulden, of Bendersville, who is 94 years old, is confined to her bed by illness.

Mrs. Sally McKinny, of Bendersville, is confined to her home by illness.

Samuel Pitzer, of Bendersville, is reported ill at his home.

The Rev. and Mrs. Nevin R. Frantz and children, Nevin, Jr., Jack and Cara Lee, of Arendtsville, have returned from a visit of several weeks with Mrs. Frantz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kearney K. Smith, of Miami, Florida.

Mrs. F. Walter Wright entertained the members of the L.L.L. club Wednesday afternoon at her home in Biglerville. The next meeting will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Warren K. Enck.

Dr. and Mrs. O. D. Coble, Mrs. Harvey W. Knouse and Mrs. B. C. Jones, of Bendersville, spent Monday in Baltimore where Dr. Coble attended a Maryland Military district Chaplains conference.

Guests at the dinner at the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, at which William M. Lott, of Gardners, was given the Master Farmer award included Mrs. Lott and their sons, Mac and Van, his mother, Mrs. David Lott, of Gettysburg, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lott, Mr. and Mrs. John Lott, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. W. Clayton Jester.

Miss Louise Kime entertained Tuesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cline, near Brysonia, in honor of Miss Shirley Flickinger who observed her birthday anniversary. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Earl Flickinger, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cline, Miss Martha Fissel, Miss Marie Cline, Miss Lois Schoffat, Miss Helen Weaver, Robert Pyles, Wayne Nary, Leon Weaver, Thomas Weaver, Donald Cline and Donald Flickinger.

St. James Lutheran Sunday school, Brysonia, of which Orville McBeth is superintendent, reports that on one occasion recently there was a perfect attendance, all of the 87 members being present. The average of attendance for the year is 87 per cent. At Christ Lutheran Sunday school, Aspers, under the same charge, a perfect attendance was recorded last Sunday. The average attendance at this school of which Mrs. Guy Bream is superintendent, is about 80 per cent. The third Sunday school of the charge, Bethlehem at Bendersville, reported that on a recent Sunday, the school had the largest attendance in its history.

The January meeting of the Women's Missionary society of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Biglerville, will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the parsonage. Miss Clara Myers will be the guest speaker.

William C. Tyson, Biglerville, transacted business in Philadelphia today.

of late winter and early spring. Such frames are best located on the south side of a building or board fence or at least on the sunny side of a heavy evergreen border. For example, a frame in which to start a bed of leaf lettuce next month should be where it will enjoy protection from prevailing winds as well as have all-day access to sunshine. Frames may be erected on the ground level or, if the soil is well drained, the pit may be slightly below the surface. One major benefit from having at least part of the sides and ends below the ground level is the retention of heat and the better shutting out of cold. Of course, the site must be well drained and free from danger of flooding after melting snow or heavy rain.

A serviceable frame consists of 1-inch boards, 12 inches wide. One of these serves as the front or south side, the other two, one on top of the other, form the north side or back of the bed. Of course, the ends should be sloped accordingly. Dimensions are usually determined by standard hotbed or coldframe sash, which measure 3 by 6 feet.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

We Both Won This One

Blow my top the other morning when I discovered a shirt I'd put on had two buttons missing.

"Joe," the missus says, "do you ever read what you write? For a man who writes newspaper pieces all about tolerance, you sometimes show a lot of race prejudice."

"Race prejudice!" I hollers. "No one can accuse me of that." "I mean prejudice against the entire human race," she interrupts with a smile. "Why get mad at the world over two little buttons? That took the wind out of me."

From where I sit (as I told the missus that evening), a lot of us sometimes get too worked up over little things . . . little differences of opinion or taste. One person prefers beer or ale, another prefers cider or lemonade. But why criticize the other fellow just because his tastes aren't the same as ours? "That sounds more like you, Joe," she laughs, snipping off a thread. (It so happens she was sewing on buttons.)

Elect Officers Of G. S. Leaders' Club

A reorganization meeting of the leaders and assistant leaders of Brownies, Intermediate and Senior Girl Scouts of Adams county was held Wednesday evening at St. James Lutheran church.

The following officers for the Leaders' club were elected: President, Miss Gloria Ecker; vice president, Mrs. Fred Pfeffer; secretary, Mrs. David Baker, and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Bushey.

The following were named to the program committee: Mrs. Leon Gage, Littlestown; Mrs. David Houck, Arendtsville, and Miss Jean Thomas, Biglerville.

A film on Girl Scouting and program activities featured the meeting. Hostesses at the meeting were members of the Cardinal Girl Scout troop.

The February meeting will be held at Abbottstown.

STOCKS LOWER

New York, Jan. 13 (P) — The stock market veered a little lower today. The results of skimpy trading, though, were scarcely conclusive. Price changes were mainly fractional and a good many stocks maintained and a good many stocks maintained.

Army May Reject Some Enlistments

Washington, Jan. 13 (P) — The Army, which asked for the present draft law to keep its strength high, may find itself turning down some voluntarily enlistments soon to keep from going beyond budget limits.

In any case, Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist said, no men will be drafted as long as recruits keep coming at the present 35,000-a-month rate—unless strength requirements change. Dahlquist is the army's deputy director of personnel and administration.

The ceiling of 677,000 officers and men for the year starting July 1 which President Truman set in his budget message to Congress Monday has already been reached. That was a cut from the previously authorized total of 937,000.

The army, which has announced it will take no draftees during February and March, denied a report yesterday that it was considering a proposal to release some of the 30,000 men already drafted in order to make room for longer-term volunteers.

Bullets Trip Bucknell 67-60 For Fifth Straight; Frosh Win

With Bucky Harris landing 31 points on a dozen goals and seven rebounds, the Gettysburg college basketball team annexed their fifth straight victory of the season Wednesday by upsetting Bucknell 67-60 at Lewisburg.

Bucknell's lanky outfit gave the Bullets plenty of trouble throughout the game but led only in the first half and ended 20-16.

Each "Hen" Bream's lads started playing much better ball in the second quarter and moved ahead 39-36 at intermission.

During the first half, the Bullets landed 20 of their points.

Throughout the second half the score was always close with the Bisons at least most of the way.

Harris and Plechner again gave a fine exhibition of backboard play, particularly in the second half.

Formerford, lanky Bison center, hit team with 20 points.

Johnny Yoviscin's Bullet freshmen led the hitherto undefeated team in the preliminary 45-44 in extra three-minute period.

Bruce won the winning goal sailing through the hoop as the final whistle sounded.

Lafayette's powerful team, victors 46-41, will engage the Bullet Saturday night while the frosh will be host to Mercersburg academy.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—One of this department's most reliable sources (with a National football tinge) reports that the all America conference has been giving serious thought to going with six clubs next season. . . That idea may have changed within the past few days, since Dan Topping indicated he is ready and willing to get out of pro football if he is able. . . The NFL, our source indicates, isn't likely to soften its Philadelphia attitude, which was that Cleveland and San Francisco are the only clubs strong enough to be accepted in a combined league. . . Organization of a new eastern college league in all sports appears to have struck a few snags and latest plans call for some switches in proposed membership. . .

After watching easy Ed McCauley and Co. lick Long Island U. and the other night, we'd like to see a repeat of that St. Louis-Kentucky basketball tussle. We're still amazed by the speed and accuracy McCauley showed in passing off to his St. Louis teammates.

lantic City. . . With that wide range of possible entertainment, Dewey has a date to take his wife to see the ballet in New York city that evening.

ballers "in tribute" to their Delta Bowl victory over Oklahoma Aggies.

COLTS, 'SKINS IN VERBAL BATTLE

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—The Washington Redskins and Baltimore Colts which some day may play in the same professional football league, yesterday fought a verbal battle that ended in a tie.

A merger of the National Football league and the younger All-America conference has been suggested as one way to end the dollar war both have been fighting for three years.

The National league has been reportedly willing to absorb the AAC's two biggest money makers, Cleveland and San Francisco, and run a two-division, 12-team league.

Yesterday the Washington Redskins management said it was waiting overtures from the Colts to get in on the deal. The Redskins belong to the National league, the Colts to the AAC.

George Marshall, Redskins owner, was quoted in Washington as saying "nobody from Baltimore has ever approached me on the subject." The New York Daily Mirror quoted him as saying he would welcome Baltimore into a proposed merger if the Colts "pay us one-half of what I think our franchise is worth."

But the Colts management slapped down the olive branch when President R. C. Embury said: (1) He saw no reason why Baltimore should approach the Redskins for a deal, and (2) the franchise payment was

"the funniest thing yet. We would not pay him a dime."

Louis Wants To Fight In June

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—Joe Louis wants to defend his heavyweight boxing championship next June against the winner of a fight between Ezzard Charles and Lee Savold.

This was disclosed last night by Col. Edward Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic commission, who said the Brown Bomber had assured him he will fight one more time.

Eagan injected this semi-official announcement of the champion's plans into the after-dinner informalities of the New York boxing writers' annual function.

The writers gathered for the principal purpose of honoring Ike Williams, the busy lightweight champion from Trenton, N. J., and Dan

23 RACE HORSES DIE TODAY AS STABLE BURNS

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Jan. 13 (AP)—Twenty-three harness horses died today in a fire that leveled a winter stable at Saratoga raceway.

Over-all loss was estimated at $150,000. Origin of the fire was not determined immediately.

Some of the best known pacers and trotters in the east perished in the blaze. Among them were Silver-spur, a pacer, and Heart of Gold, a trotter. Both had a record of 2:05 for a mile on the raceway's half-mile track.

Only One Escapes

Only one horse, a two-year-old pacer owned by Miss Hurta Sonnenburg of Stonington, Conn., escaped. Twelve of the horses destroyed were trained by Aubrey S. Rodney and 11 by Bill Berry, both of Saratoga Springs.

The fire broke out about 4:20 a. m. The wooden structure, built last summer at a cost of $25,000, was leveled in 40 minutes.

Rodney placed a value of $64,000 on the horses in his charge. Berry estimated that the horses he trained were worth $54,500. Most of the horses lost in the fire were insured.

Among the horses trained by Berry were six owned by Dunbar Bostwick of Shelburne, Vt. There were valued at $35,000, including $10,000 for Chuck Scott, a three-year-old Hambletonian eligible.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Pioneer Residents Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary: Mr. and Mrs. James F. Bell, Hunterstown, quietly observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home on Tuesday. Incidentally, the occasion also was the seventy-first birthday anniversary of Mrs. Bell.

Army Flyers Smash All Records: Los Angeles, Jan. 8 (AP)—The army monoplane Question Mark ended its historic endurance test at 2:12 p. m. Monday, being forced to the ground by motor trouble after establishing the remarkable continuous flight record of 150 hours and 40 minutes and 15 seconds.

The crew of five men composed of Major Carl Spatz, Captain Ira C. Eaker, Lieutenant Harry A. Halverson and Elwood R. Quesada and Staff Sergeant Roy W. Hoos stepped calmly from the cabin and a crowd of officers and War department representatives swarmed around them, shouting congratulations.

Two County Men Join Army: Harrison Runkle, Gettysburg, and Lester Warner, Biglerville, enlisted in the United States army at Harrisburg, Tuesday, for three years service with the infantry in the Philippines. Neither knew that the other planned to enlist until they met at the recruiting office, Harrisburg.

Runkle is the son of Mrs. Benton Gilbert, and Warner is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Warner.

Countians Wed Monday Evening: Mrs. Vina Gladys Russell, Orrtanna, and Clair Albert Rebert, McKnightstown, were married at 7 o'clock Monday evening, at the parsonage of the Fairfield Reformed church, the Rev. R. W. Limbert officiating. The ring ceremony was used.

The bride was attired in a gown of white ivory satin, trimmed in rhinestones. Mrs. Russell is a daughter of Mrs. Flora E. Metz, Orrtanna, R. 1. At present she is teacher of the Orrtanna grammar school.

Mr. Rebert is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Rebert, McKnightstown, and is associated with his brothers John and Orman Rebert, in farming and fruit culture, near Orrtanna.

3,000 View Body of Tex Rickard: New York, Jan. 9 (AP)—More than 500 persons were in line when the doors of Madison Square Garden were opened at 10 o'clock to permit the public to file past the body of Tex Rickard lying in state. Several hundred, mostly men, had been waiting since dawn. It was estimated that more than 3,000 filed past the coffin placed in the center of the arena, during the first hour.

Land Bank Elects: At the annual meeting of the Adams County National Farm Loan Association of the Federal Land bank, Tuesday, the following were elected directors: John H. Knox, David G. Lott, John Eppelman, Frank Felix, Harvey A. Miller and Leo L. Redding.

The board organized by electing John H. Knox, president; David G. Lott, vice president; and Attorney C. E. Stahl, secretary-treasurer.

Paul R. Mehring Is Married: Miss Sara Belle Slyder, daughter of Mr. J. F. Slyder, Chambersburg, and Paul R. Mehring, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Marshall Mehring, Gettysburg, were married Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the home of and by the Rev. D. B. Wineman, great uncle of the bride.

The bride was formerly a student at Penn Hall. Mr. Mehring is teaching at Berwyn.

After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Mehring will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

Girls Hosts to Employers at Friday Dinner: Members of the Business and Professional Girls' club were hosts to their employers at a dinner at the "Y" building Friday evening, the first function of its kind. Seventy-five persons attended the dinner, which was prepared and served by members of the club.

Miss Ellen Tipton capably carried out her role as toastmaster. The opening prayer was given by the Rev. Edward H. Jones. Miss Thelma Ross

Today's Talk

ON GIVING CREDIT

The most appreciative people in the world are those who receive from you your appreciation. There is a feeling that when a writer, artist, or public man reaches notable fame or some unusual distinction, he cares little for what people may say to him, but this is not true. The greater a man, or woman, the greater is that appreciation received.

When I read a moving book I like to tell the author of my appreciation—and what an encouragement that is to him. The late Earl Derr Biggers once wrote a remarkable story—one of his first—called "Milly," and one of the first to congratulate him was Richard Harding Davis. He told me that this boost helped greatly to establish him as an author.

All men in public life are encouraged and given renewed courage every time anyone writes to them a letter telling of their appreciation of what they may have done well. Giving credit where credit is due, and deserved, is a generous and noble act.

Never should we forget to thank those who have helped to give us a boost or who have encouraged us along the way. It's like furnishing new oil to the soil, giving to life a smooth running over a road that at times is often rough with unpaved detours.

I wish that I could call from their graves a thousand or more writers of books whose writings have enriched and inspired me through life. I wish that I could, as well, give credit to an endless number of artists who have decorated my heart with their undying masterpieces of beauty. How I would like to have lived when Abraham Lincoln delivered his immortal Gettysburg speech, and written a letter to tell him of his beauty and greatness.

There are not only hungry stomachs in this world. There are millions who are hungry in heart for a word of kindness, of encouragement, and appreciation. A little credit for something worthily performed, to one who is deserving, might easily change that one's entire life!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Inception Success"

Just Folks

'Tis not as if the Lord had said: "Be rich before you join the dead. Be cleverest of all the throne. And be the strongest of the strong." For had that been the Lord's command,

This life on earth but few could stand.

'Tis well that there are victories For all to win, exceeding these: Some lasting joys for man to claim That may not come with wealth and fame.

The generous heart, the gracious mind Leave lasting memories behind.

The home serene will compensate For lack of talents to be great. Honor and love and friends and pride

May be to champions denied, But he whose life such triumphs shows Has more than gold alone bestows.

A toast to the employers was given by Miss Edna Eicholtz to which I. L. Taylor responded. Miss Anne Macfarlane spoke briefly. The principal address was given by Miss Helen L. Cope.

Miss Grace Hummer is president of the Business and Professional Girls' club, which has a membership of eighty. Miss Helen Sheely is secretary and Miss Esther Hartman, treasurer.

Littlestown Man Weds Hanover Girl: Nevaeh A. Crouse, son of I. H. Crouse, Littlestown, and Miss Evelyn L. Bowman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Bowman, Hanover, were married Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, of Hanover by the Rev. H. H. Beidleman. They were attended by Marie Crouse and Harry Bowman.

Mr. Crouse is in the contracting business with his father, and with his bride will occupy a newly-built home in Littlestown.

Personal Mention: Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Holtzworth and Mrs. Ida Troxell attended the funeral of Fred Bartell, of York, Tuesday.

Mrs. C. Clifford Bream spent Thursday in Chambersburg with Mr. and Mrs. S. Huber Heintzelman. The Heintzelmans left Friday morning on a business trip to Houston, Texas.

The Gettysburg and Reaser furniture factory held a turkey and waffle dinner Wednesday night at Miss Helges' coffee shop in Biglerville.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson and Dr. E. W. Tilberg were attending the annual meeting of the Presidents of Colleges and University Professors which was being held at Chattanooga, Tennessee.

SHORTAGE OF
$1,170 FOUND
IN SNYDER CO.

Harrisburg, Jan. 13 (AP)—James F. McFadden, deputy auditor general, says an audit of accounts of Ray G. F. Leach, Snyder county treasurer, disclosed that $1,170.93 in commonwealth funds is "unaccounted for."

McFadden said last night a department auditor reported that he found shortages totaling $2,013.90 in state fish, game and hunting license funds in the treasurer's office. However, there was $842 frozen in a bank to the credit of the commonwealth.

"The way it looks now," McFadden told a reporter, "if the frozen account is credited to the state, there is $1,170.93 unaccounted for."

Ask Duff To Act
In addition, McFadden said there will be penalties for late transmission of funds to the state but added that the amount will be determined by conferences with the state revenue department.

Earlier this week, Snyder county auditors petitioned James H. Duff to declare the treasurer's office vacant to permit appointment of an acting county treasurer.

Duff said he will defer action on the petition until the Justice Department has submitted a ruling on it. That department now has the petition under consideration.

Leach disappeared on January 4 after calling his office and informing clerks he was ill. He said he expected to go to the hospital. Horace W. Vought said the only word from the missing treasurer was a letter saying: "I just broke up. I don't know what I'm doing. I'm like I'm in a spell."

During the past month individual pictures of all pupils in the system were taken by National School Studios, Inc., and this company furnished the jointure with individual file photographs which will become a part of the school progress records of each student.

Boards Meet Separately

The school enrollment for the month was 523 in grades one to six inclusive, and 410 in the Junior-Senior high school grades seven to 12 inclusive. Coaches Clayton Evans and Maurice Bream attended the meeting of PIAA at Hershey on December 13.

Reporting for the school nurse Mrs. Brenda Walker, Prof. King stated that the general student health was good for this time of the year with the exception that quite a few students are absent due to measles and chickenpox.

The reports of Prof. King; Mrs. Walker and Treasurer Streig were accepted and approved by the executive board. Bills amounting to $11,794.23 were approved for payment. H. Allen Walker, president presided at the executive board which was attended by Willis Waybright, James Streig, George Worley, Luther Hess, Clayton Harfert, Lloyd E. Crouse, and Luther W. Ritter; also Mr. King and secretary, Henry E. Waltman.

Following adjournment of the executive board at 8:30 p. m., the various individual boards of the jointure met in different class rooms of the high school for short business sessions at the close of which all members of the four boards held a special business session in the high school library.

Howard Walker, a middle in the Lutheran Theological seminary, Gettysburg, and a member of the seminary choir, was the guest soloist at the fourth of the preaching mission services, Wednesday evening in St. Paul's Lutheran church, with approximately 350 members of the various congregations of the town in attendance. Mr. Walker sang "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, and Mrs. Victor Carlson, whose husband is a senior at the seminary, was organ accompanist.

The Rev. Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, who is the guest speaker, for the week's services, spoke on the topic "Pray Without Ceasing." His text was from the I Thessalonians 5:17.

The Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of the host church, conducted the service.

The members of Littlestown Girl Scout Troop No. 15, of which Mrs. Hildah Arter is the leader, attended the service in a body. At this evening's service, which will begin at 7:30 o'clock and to which the public is invited, the Littlestown Men's chorus will provide special music. Dr. Rasmussen's topic will be, "No Man Lives Alone." The service will be in charge of the Rev. Charles B. Rebert, secretary of the ministerium.

The concluding service of the preaching mission will be held tomorrow evening.

On Sunday evening, the first of the second series of union vesper services, also arranged by the Littlestown Ministerium, will be held in St. John's Lutheran church. The Rev. Charles A. Price, pastor of St. Mary's Reformed church, Silver Run, will be the guest speaker.

HER SECRET STAR

Chapter 1

Betty Matthews sat with her face pressed against the train window, staring out at the bleak New England countryside, wishing she were back in Manhattan. Anywhere but here!

There was nothing about it that even remotely resembled a refuge. It seemed to exude a chill that penetrated Betty's entire body despite the fact that when the Cape Cod train had left Boston, only an hour ago, the coach had been almost too warm for comfort. She had a vague but terrifying feeling that it was symbolic of the life which lay ahead of her.

But she knew very well that she would bear it. Would have to bear it, since Uncle Dave Warren's home in Carrolton, a town proudly known as "the birthplace of America and the gateway to Cape Cod," was the only refuge open to her, now that her mother was gone. Yes, she would have to face it with the same patience and fortitude that had characterized the Pilgrims in the long ago. It must have been quite a shock to them too!

Although it was the beginning of April, southeastern Massachusetts still lay frozen and dormant in the grip of a seemingly interminable winter.

Betty Matthews, seeing this part of the country for the first time on this windswept April day, saw it as a place where the sun never shone, where nothing ever happened, and where warmth and friendliness were conspicuous by their absence.

She recalled with a sense of nostalgia that it was spring in the South, where she had lived as a child in the old carefree days before her mother had found it necessary to carve out a career for herself. Only two weeks ago she, Betty, had gone back there to stand before an open grave.

She recalled how she had stood, numb and inarticulate, while they buried her mother in the little cemetery overlooking the picturesque Swannee River and the daisy-studded fields beyond. And somehow her grief was made a little less poignant by the thought that it was spring—would always be springtime in Georgia where her mother slept.

It was spring too in New York, where she and her mother had lived for the past ten years, and where Frances Matthews had worked as a commercial artist before tragedy put an end to her career. Although there was still a chill in the air, there were reminders of spring on every corner.

A quick appraisal of her traveling companions when she entered the local train had been anything but heartening to Betty. Still smarting under the shock of her mother's death and the sense of aloneness that possessed her, she had been painfully aware of unfriendly eyes fixed upon her as she hurried down the aisle and sank into the first vacant seat. They were fixed on her now; she could feel them, although her face was turned toward the window and she was trying very hard to concentrate on the terrain.

She lifted her chin a trifle higher and told herself she was imagining things; she was being ridiculously sensitive. These were the people she would live with the rest of her life. She was not an outsider—not really. If they stared at her, it was simply because she was a stranger and they were curious.

She had no way of knowing that what her fellow travelers saw was a young woman who definitely did not belong in these parts. At least not yet. The tourist season was all of six weeks away, and they weren't ready for visitors. Their disapproving glances were not prompted by classiness alone. They represented the natural resentment of a winter-harassed people against city visitors who came too early or stayed too late.

She straightened to attention as she observed a sudden change in the terrain. The houses facing the tracks began to look more prosperous and lived in. The marshes had given way to gently rolling hills with real trees upon them. Betty could see none of the publicized sand dunes, nor any of the rocks made famous in song and story. But she did catch occasional glimpses of an angry, restless sea and was momentarily impressed. This, she assumed, must be "the stern and rugged rock-bound coast" on which the forefathers landed.

And it would be raining. The rain which had been threatening all day, was now coming down in businesslike sheets. The wind too had increased in fury. It seemed bent upon tossing the train off the track, and thus destroying the last vestige of human life in this formidable world. It was almost as if the rain and the wind and the sea had banded together to provide a fittingly desolate end to a desolate journey.

Although she felt the sting of tears in her eyes, Betty pulled herself together and managed to smile. In a few minutes she would be getting off the train. Uncle Dave—and perhaps Aunt Minniebelle and little Gertrude—would be meeting her. They must never, never know how desolate she felt.

"And you shouldn't feel desolate," she admonished herself. "You just don't know how lucky you are. It'll be wonderful living in a real house instead of a tiny apartment. It'll be fun having a family around you, and a kid cousin to keep things exciting and just a little bit goofy."

Chapter 2

The train was pulling into the station now. Meanwhile the conductor was shouting, in the same unintelligible voice with which he announced all stations, something that sounded vaguely like "Har-rumph—Carrolton."

As she came down the steps she paused briefly to peer at the sign on the side of the little red brick depot. It was waving violently in the wind and almost obscured by the rain, but she managed to make out the word "Carrolton," and was reassured. She paid no attention to the scroll-like "N" in front of the name, for she had yet to learn that almost every village in southeastern Massachusetts has its "North," "South," "Center" and "Four-Corners"—all miles apart.

Betty stood on the rain-drenched platform for what seemed an interminable time, scanning every face. There were only a few people—none who looked even remotely like David Warren. Finally, when everyone had gone and she was alone on the platform, she was forced to admit that no one had come to meet her.

The waiting room was deserted, save for a slicker-clad man who stood with his back turned, jiggling a cigarette machine. She walked past him to the ticket window and stood watching the station-master, who was busily clicking a telegraph instrument and did not look up. There was a slight edge to her voice when she called to him:

"I'd like a ticket, please—if you don't mind too much."

"Where to?"

"New York." She could be just as economical with words as he was, Betty decided.

He stared at her sharply, but made no effort to produce a ticket. "No more trains till tomorrow, Miss," he informed her, and started to pull down the window.

"Oh," exclaimed Betty, unable to conceal her dismay. She had not counted on this. There was nothing to do now but get a taxi and go to a hotel for the night.

"I then I'll take a taxi, if you'll tell me where I can get one." She smiled at the stationmaster now, regretting her rudeness of a moment before.

He did not smile back at her. Instead, his black eyes narrowed with suspicion. "All the way to New York? Seems to me the train you just got off of was headed in the other direction. Sure you know where you want to go, Miss? Sure you're all right?"

Betty felt her face burn. Just what was this man inferring? "Certainly I'm all right," she announced indignantly. "I simply want a taxi to take me to a hotel, till I can get out of this horrible place." She bit her lip; she hadn't intended saying that much. "I'm sorry. It's just that I expected—er—friends to meet me here in Carrolton, and I was—well, a little disappointed."

There was a slight change in the man's attitude, but he spoke guardedly. "Well, now, that's too bad. Seems like you've made a mistake, Miss. Maybe your friends didn't meet you on account of you got off the wrong station."

"The wrong station," Betty repeated, forcing back the tears. "Oh, no! This is Carrolton, isn't it?"

The station-master shook his head. "No, Miss. This is North Carrolton!"

"I'd ask you to come inside here and phone somebody to come and get you—only the wires have gone bad. Telegraph wires went dead too, just a minute ago. Anyhow, I doubt if you could get a taxi to come over on a day like this. Me—I wouldn't want to chance. Worst hurricane we've had in years."

"I would get off at the wrong station," she finished. "When I wanted so much to conform. They're waiting for me. I wired Uncle Dave I'd be there on this very train. I—"

She stopped, suddenly aware that someone had stepped up behind her. And a voice—a rather pleasant voice—was saying:

"You can wipe off the tears, Cinderella. You're being rescued. Train or no train, you're practically in Carrolton right now."

Betty turned quickly and found herself looking up into the friendliest blue eyes she had ever seen. They belonged to the man in the slicker and floppy storm hat who had been pommeling the cigarette machine. She was surprised to see that he was a young man, and quite handsome in a devil-may-care sort of way. There was a quirk to his eyebrows that indicated he might be teasing, but his smile was warm and solicitous.

"I'm Jack Barnes. I live in Carrolton," he said, laughing a little. "I'll run you over—though I can't figure out why anybody in his right mind would be wanting to go there. Me—I was born there. Been trying to get out ever since."

His grin, however, was reassuring, and so were his words to the station-master, whom he seemed to know. "I've got my car outside, Steve, and I'll take over from here," he said, picking up Betty's traveling bag.

"I'll get her there in no time at all." The older man muttered something that did not sound at all complimentary, then spoke to the

WINTER EASES IN STORM AREAS

(By The Associated Press)

Storm warnings were lowered over most of the nation's map today as temperatures moderated and generally fair conditions prevailed.

Some rain fell in the valleys and along the coast in southern California. There was more snow in the mountains. The rain and rising temperatures indicated a melting of most of the snow which had hit the normally snow-less area the past four days.

Snow falls were reported by the U. S. Weather Bureau in northern Michigan, scattered sections of northern New England and in New York state.

But the storm-harassed areas of some southwest and south central states still felt the effects of a three-day ice storm.

In the Pacific northwest, a breakdown of the northwest electrical power pool still threatened. Streams in the inland mountain sections are choked with ice after a week of severe cold but there was hope of rising temperatures.

girl, who had turned to say goodbye. "It's a chance I wouldn't advise you to take, Miss," he told her through lips taut with disapproval. "I'm telling you there's a hurricane on the way. Matter of fact, it's already here. Got no business racing with trains anyhow, endangering other people's lives."

Betty had a vague feeling that he was warning her not against the approaching hurricane or the dangers of speeding, but against the red-headed young man. But she brushed it aside, smiled a bright good-bye, which the station-master did not acknowledge, and followed Jack Barnes out of the waiting room.

Find Knife Wounds
Caused Boy's Death

Philadelphia, Jan. 13 (AP)—Police say stab wounds from a seven-inch bread knife—and not a pair of scissors—killed 12-year old Ellis Simons.

Police said the knife still bearing bloodstains, was found in a kitchen drawer yesterday at the Wynnefield home of 16-year old Seymour Levin, who has been held without bail on a homicide charge.

Earlier, police found a much smaller paring knife in a wash boiler in the basement, together with a length of rope from which a portion had been cut.

The mutilated body of the Simons boy was found bound hands and feet last Sunday behind a garage to the rear of the Levin home.

Levin, in statements, has said the paring knife was used merely to cut the rope, and has maintained steadfastly that a pair of scissors was the only weapon, police said.

STARTLING VIEW OF RED BATTLE GIVEN IN TRUMAN BUDGET REPORT

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—You get a startling view of the deadly struggle with Russia in President Truman's figures.

He gave them, ice-cold, to Congress this week: The cost of paying the government's expenses another year.

He asked for almost $42 billion and more than half of it, about $22½ billion, is for national defense and foreign aid.

Lift the edges of those figures, look behind them, and you can see a picture; past, present and future.

The Past
After the war there was an enormous need in this country for everything from new trolley cars to new toasters.

In time—if we had nothing else to worry about, such as Communism—supply would catch up with demand. Then would come the very serious problem of leveling off, of trying to keep people employed and the country from sliding into depression.

This leveling off—if there had been nothing else to worry about—might have gotten under way about 1948 and given us a chance to try to get back to normal. But—

The leveling off didn't have a chance to start. Communism had become a threat to all Europe and to us. So we had to start pouring money, resources, and manpower into national defense and foreign aid.

The Present
For the coming year Mr. Truman is asking about $22½ billion for national defense and foreign aid. Without that, government costs would be about $21 billion. All this is keeping the country from reaching a natural level, the leveling off period mentioned above.

But there is something else: Because of the money, resources and work going into national defense and foreign aid, we're living in a bit of a pumped up prosperity.

And—how long can this keep up? How long can we afford to pour into military power and foreign aid the wealth which otherwise would be used for the benefit of this country at home?

The Future
We may wind up in war with Russia. If we do, the costs will be gigantic. If we won such a war, no one now can predict what kind of shape we ourselves would be in at the end.

We may have to keep up this defense-aid program for years. That would be duck soup for the Russians.

The more they can keep us in definitely on a jittery edge, with the present kind of huge, artificial spending, the more they can hope we will eventually crack up. They might win then, without war. But how would it be if Russia backed up tomorrow, or pretended to, and we started to level off?

What would happen to our economy if we were suddenly able to cut down to a dribble our defense spending? Would it mean a business drop? or wide unemployment? Or even start a depression?

American Indians made no use of water-power, but the Pilgrims used it to grind corn as early as 1628.

Littlestown.—The Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Littlestown, has been appointed by the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the United Lutheran church, to install his son, the Rev. John Kammerer, as pastor of the Lutheran church at Boiling Springs. The installation ceremonies will be conducted on Sunday morning, The Rev. Victor A. Carlson, a senior in the Gettysburg seminary, will occupy the pulpit of St. Paul's church on Sunday morning in the absence of the Rev. Mr. Kammerer. Rev. John Kammerer assumed his duties in the Boiling Springs church on December 19 following a pastorate of several years in the Marysville-Duncannon Lutheran charge. He is a graduate of the Gettysburg seminary.

A. C. Garland, East King street, left this afternoon for Richmond, Va., where he will attend a regional meeting of the southeastern branch of the Prudential Insurance company of America. Mr. Garland was accompanied on this trip by George T. Digby, Braddock Heights, Md. They will return home on Saturday afternoon.

At the quarterly meeting of the home association of the Mason and Dixon Memorial Post No. 6954, VFW, held on Tuesday evening following the regular post meeting, the yearly report of the treasurer on post finances was given by John H. Riley, in addition to the routine business.

Mrs. Leonard Kerchner, Lumber street, was hostess to the members of the Ever Willing Sunday school class of St. John's Lutheran church Tuesday evening following the preaching mission service. The meeting opened with a group song and the scripture lesson was read by the teacher, Mrs. Harry W. Badders. A prayer in unison and a song by the group followed. The hostess gave a reading.

Mrs. Eleanor Tressler, newly elected president, was in charge of the business session. A guess package contributed by Mrs. Hope King was received by Mrs. Rita Greene. A Bible quiz was conducted in charge of the teacher, Mrs. Badders. The next meeting of the class will be held on Tuesday, February 8, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Janet Reaver, West King street. EDEN ASSAILS BRITISH POLICY IN HOLY LAND

London, Jan. 13 (AP)—Conservative spokesman Anthony Eden, expressing fear of a British-American break over Palestine, terms Foreign Secretary Bevin's handling of middle eastern affairs confused.

Eden declared in a political talk at Warwick last night the British labor government and the U. S. State department must share the blame "for failure either to declare a firm policy or take a firm line."

"I have long been anxious lest these Palestinian events should imperil Anglo-American friendship," said the man who was wartime foreign secretary under Winston Churchill and is second only to Churchill in the Conservative party leadership. "Surely the time has now come when a supreme effort must be made to agree on an Anglo-American policy and carry it out."

Eden said the destruction of five British planes by Israeli forces during a battle between Jews and Arabs on the Palestine-Egyptian border last Friday was "an unwarranted and aggressive act."

But he added: "Why were our aircraft sent to carry out a reconnaissance over battle areas in such conditions? What useful British purpose could the flight be held to serve?"

Those were a sample of the questions expected to be asked Bevin by both Conservative and Laborite critics when Parliament meets again next week. It resumes sessions Tuesday.

Mrs. Kerchner and her daughter, Nancy, to the 17 members in attendance.

The Oil Angle
Aside from defense, a primary British interest is access to middle eastern oil. This asset was emphasized in the prediction of Egyptian government officials in Cairo yesterday that the Sinal desert area east of the Suez canal will become one of the richest oil producing regions in the world.

A prospecting well drilled by Socomey Vacuum not far from Sidra came into production this week. Government officials estimated the new field will yield 5,000 tons of petroleum a day. This is more than the daily production of all Egyptian fields in 1946.

The Negev desert of Palestine, focal point of recent Israeli-Egyptian fighting, juts down like an arrowhead toward the Red sea between Egypt's Sinal desert and Trans-Jordan. The Negev, which the United Nations partition plan assigned to the Jews, is believed to have oil possibilities.

MARSHALL AND TRUMAN CHAT

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—President Truman stirred thoughts of "what next?" today after a secret flight to North Carolina for a chat with General George A. Marshall.

Mr. Truman slipped out of town without advance announcement to reporters. They learned later he left at 1:13 p. m. EST in an Air Force Constellation.

But they didn't learn this until 2:30 p. m. when Assistant Press Secretary Eben Ayers summoned them to say "President Truman is just about now arriving at Pinehurst."

N. C., to call on Secretary Marshall. Ayers was asked if the President eluded reporters because he didn't want them along. He replied that Mr. Truman simply made the trip without notifying them, and added: "He frequently goes places without the reporters going along."

To reporters who greeted him upon his landing last night at Washington, he explained simply: "I needed to see the secretary of state, so I went to see him. I'm glad I went because we rehearsed a lot of stories to our mutual satisfaction."

There was nothing significant in the visit insofar as foreign policy is concerned, he said. It was "just a personal visit, and a pleasant one."

EXPLAINS HOW JUSTICES OFTEN CAN DISAGREE

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—"When I use a word," Humpty Dumpty said, "it means just what I choose it to mean—neither more nor less." "The question is," said Alice, "whether you can make words mean different things."

If a Supreme Court justice were reading that in Through the Looking Glass, he'd have to nod his head and say: "Yes, Alice, yes, indeed. Words do mean different things, particularly to justices of the United States Supreme court."

And that's one of the reasons why the nine justices of the court disagree so often among themselves.

In the past three months the court has handed down 27 decisions and in 19 of them the justices disagreed. And in eight of those 19 times the nine justices divided: five for, four against.

Sometimes, seeing how close a decision is, people say: "Here are nine justices, all expert in law, and they can't agree on what a law means. How does that happen?"

Maybe the best explanation came long ago from Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes—who dissented from the majority often—when he said "I am not God."

Which is another way of saying the nine justices are only human, and are sometimes right, sometimes wrong, and, being human, disagree. And time may show that the minority who dissented from the majority today was really right and the majority wrong. Then a later court can change the old decision around to fit new conditions.

Appeal To Future Day

Thinking of this, the late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes once said: "A dissent in a court of last resort is an appeal to the brooding spirit of the law, to the intelligence of a future day, when a later decision may possibly correct the error into which the dissenting judge believes the court to have been betrayed."

But what causes the justices to differ if they're all educated men, know the law, and look up the same cases in reaching a decision?

Fourteen years ago, writing in the

PRODUCTIVE FARM

Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 12 (AP)—The Schuykill county farmhouse produced farm products valued in excess of $50,000 during 1948. William L. Powell, steward, told the Schuykill county commissioners. In his report yesterday, Powell said the county farm produced 250,000 pounds of milk, 15,000 heads of cabbage and 12,000 dozen eggs in addition to numerous other vegetables.

weekly magazine, The Nation, Max Lerner said, among other things: "The determining factor becomes not some rigorous rule but the judge's own social philosophy. This in turn is shaped by his class roots, his education, his experience, and the elements in the contemporary climate of opinion to which he is responsive."

And one of the present justices, William O. Douglas, thought enough about this problem of dissenting opinion to comment on it in a talk some time ago before the American Bar association. He said: "Disagreement among judges is as true to the character of democracy as freedom of speech itself."

HIROHITO WAS "EXCLUDED" AS WAR CRIMINAL

Tokyo, Jan. 13 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito escaped prosecution as a war criminal on orders of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Copies of the order are available here. The order, a part of the directive to Gen. Douglas MacArthur to set up the International Tribunal, which convicted Hideki Tojo and 24 other Japanese war leaders, was issued in January, 1946.

At first it was classed as top secret. Later it was graded down to allow defense attorneys for the 25 class AAA Japanese war criminals to use it in their appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Specifically it prohibited prosecution of the emperor "pending receipt of a further directive." Reliable sources said no further directive ever was received by MacArthur.

Used In Appeal

These sources said the decision not to prosecute Hirohito, who was commander in chief of Japan's armed forces, came from a U. S. "governmental level," which was not further identified. The chiefs of staff then issued the order. At that time the far Eastern commission had not been formed as an advisory body on policy for the occupation.

One of the many copies of the order which are circulating in Tokyo now was air mailed to defense attorneys in New York who included it as appendix D in the brief filed with the Supreme Court.

However, after the brief had been printed in New York and taken to Washington, Army department authorities noted that the policy regarding the emperor was contained on the last page of the directive No. 1512 from the joint chiefs of staff. Army authorities in Washington ordered the last portion deleted. Since the point was not an issue in the appeals, defense attorneys tore the final page from 10 copies of the printed brief.

The order resulted in some delicate legal tight rope walking acts by the prosecution in the top war criminals trial. The prosecutor could not state publicly that the emperor had been granted amnesty, at the same time almost every avenue of evidence concerning military plans led directly up a chain of command to the emperor.

Trial evidence showed that Hirohito in the early fall of 1941 became worried as to whether his admirals and generals, then preparing and rehearsing the Pearl Harbor sneak attack, had enough resources to carry out war. They reassured him.

The international tribunal president, Sir William Webb of Australia, noted the many trials of evidence leading to Hirohito which were never followed up by the prosecution.

Sir William pointedly called Chief Joseph B. Keenan's attention to the fact that command responsibility rested with the emperor. Keenan answered that it was the prosecution's theory that the emperor had been held in the power of "gangsters." Sir William remained dissatisfied and since his return to Australia has stated publicly that he thought Hirohito should have been prosecuted as a war criminal.

LEGION GROUP

committee vice chairman, reported that the program for the annual Legion essay contest is well underway in Adams county and that plans for the contest are getting underway in York and Franklin counties.

The district, on motion of Earl Sollenburger, York, voted to endorse James Heffernan, York; past district commander, as a candidate for central vice commander at the state Legion convention at Pittsburgh in August.

Membership Report

Reports from various posts showed that four have gone "over the top" in their current membership drives. They are Greencastle, St. Thomas, Stewartstown and Red Lion. Gettysburg's Lentz post was reported in fourth place in the district for number of members already registered for 1949. So far 936 of the over 1,600 members of the local post have paid dues for 1949, it was reported.

A memorial service for departed members was conducted and the invitation from York post No. 127 to hold the March 15 meeting there was accepted. District Commander Geiselman was introduced to the group by Raymond Spahr, commander of the Lentz post, at the opening of the session.

Franklin Moore

trol beyond the tawdry grasping of the type of politician and leadership that is ambitious.

Pointing out that social legislation is taking 40 per cent of the taxes paid in France, Mr. Moore warned that social security in the United States which took one per cent of payroll originally is going to take more of the tax dollar here.

"If we get socialized medicine the tax on payrolls will reach 10 per cent and we will be well started along the same route as France and England."

"Twenty-eight per cent of our national income goes for taxes today. It must be remembered that regardless of who pays the tax to the government all taxes come from the labor of those who work."

Workers Pay Costs

In this connection, Mr. Moore commented on the large segment of the population that must be carried by those engaged in productive enterprise.

"Those who produce must provide the money through taxes to support more than 2,000,000 federal employees and the additional millions in state, county and municipal government. In addition, those who produce must provide the money in dues and contributions that support millions more engaged in trade associations, unions, political and cultural organizations not to mention scores of charitable enterprises. Some statistician will someday compute the load the productive segment of the population is carrying and will determine just how great is the overload or the over-riding of one group over another."

"All of this is paid out of taxes on productive income and you can tax income only so far and then you have to begin to tax or confiscate capital, just as they are now doing in the socialized countries of the world."

Scharf Is Toastmaster

"Depending upon political doles never made a man of anyone. Let's teach our kids what America is."

Henry M. Scharf was toastmaster for the program which followed a roast turkey dinner, served at 6:30 o'clock. Introductions included M. C. Jones, vice president; Franklin R. Bigham, secretary; Miss Rhoda Breighner, treasurer; Atty. John B. Keith, new member of the board of directors; Edward Leister, in charge of the Littlestown office; Joseph Bankert, a Littlestown employee; Rev. John C. Brumbach, Littlestown reporter; George Kadwill, composing room foreman, who designed the menus and programs, and the members of the 20- and 15-year clubs.

Regrets were received from Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college; Dr. A. R. Wentz, president of the Lutheran Theological seminary, and Judge W. C. Sheely, speakers at former banquets; from Samuel G. Spangler, president of the company, and P. Leroy Harner and John Feaser of the Littlestown office who were unable to be present.

"Honorary Members"

Certificates of honorary membership on "The Times Staff" were presented to other former speakers, Philip R. Bickle, Leighton C. Taylor, and to the speaker of the evening, Mr. Moore. Others for whom certificates had been prepared, but who were not present when they were awarded, were Dr. Hanson, Dr. Wentz, W. C. Sheely and Edmund W. Thomas. Mr. Thomas attended the dinner but did not remain for the program because of another engagement.

Leighton C. Taylor, Bendersville, spoke in appreciation of his honorary membership on The Times staff, of another engagement.

Entertainment was furnished by the comedy team of Paul Neff and Lou Little, arranged by George Phillips, Philadelphia. James Mannix of Harrisburg was at the piano. Prizes were awarded, as follows: guest prize, Mrs. George Evanko; women's prize, Mrs. Kay Trostle; men's prize, Charles W. Harbaugh.

One hundred seventeen were present at the dinner. Favors were presented to the women guests.

FILES RIGHTS OF WAY

Rights of way for lines of the Metropolitan Edison company over the following properties have been recorded with the county register and recorder: Earl W. and Annie I. Know Your State

The BATTLE OF BUSHY RUN

(FOUGHT NEAR JEANNETTE IN WESTMORELAND COUNTY IN AUGUST, 1763)

IS SAID TO HAVE MARKED THE TURNING POINT IN THE STRUGGLE OF THE WHITE SETTLERS AGAINST THE INDIANS.

The Largest Farm Show

OF ITS KIND IN THE NATION IS HELD—NOT IN THE SO-CALLED FARM STATES, BUT IN PENNSYLVANIA!

 PREPARED BY PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE ***

There are SO MANY MORE BABIES NOW IN PENNSYLVANIA THAT PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS HAVE TO PRODUCE 300,000,000 MORE QUARTS OF MILK A YEAR THAN THEY DID IN 1940.
